San Bruno Mountain

Follett Has Not Given Up on Development

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Robert L. Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates, makes it clear he has not given up the fight to win approval for a proposed development on San Bruno Mountain, including the Saddle Area.

Last week, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors in a split 3-2 vote ignored their Planning Commission's recommendation for the Visitacion development, and accepted a modified plan instead.

This "modified plan" removed the Saddle Area of the mountain from Visitacion's proposal. Follett called the Saddle Area "the very guts of our project."

Labor groups and supporters of the proposal have condemned the board for its action, but Follett has assumed a calmer posture.

He said he feels he has done his job in presenting the case for the development "as honestly and as fairly as I can."

On the one hand, the tall, white-haired Follett, who has ramrodded the Visitacion outfit at a number of public hearings around the Bay Area in recent months, said he will evaluate the situation and "explore every legal avenue open to us."

On the other hand, the mere mention of Supervisor Edward Bacciocco's name prompts from Follett a sharp unprintable reply regarding what he thinks of the decision.

It is Bacciocco's "modified" idea that is solely responsible for "killing off this project and keeping thousands of people in our county out of work," Follett charged.

Past studies, presented before the Planning Commission and the supervisors in the longest series of hearings ever held here, indicate that without development of the Saddle, the entire project is economically non-feasible, Follett pointed out.

Some observers felt that defeat of the plan by the supervisors also would spell out the end of Follett as Visitacion's representative.

Others, more familiar with such development proceedings, say Follett accomplished much since taking over the AMFAC-Foremost McKesson joint venture project.

"For one thing he's established a value for the mountain site — something that just wasn't there before," a Daly City official said.

With this valuation now apparently firmly entrenched, coupled with the board's cutting up of the project, Follett could have a case for backing up his recent statements that the board's action "constitutes a taking" the unnamed official said.

Follett, himself, leaves no doubt that if all other avenues fail, the matter will end up in the courts "and we'll win, you can bet on that."

He warned: "The county has in effect (by its decision) condemned our property. If the (supervisors) decision stands, we will have no choice but to attempt to recover the value of the property through the courts."

Follett is playing his cards close to his vest at this time. He aid he has no intention of tipping his hand concerning which way company attorneys will go until after the county makes its final determination.

With the supervisors' action finished, the matter of the development has been routinely sent back to the Planning Commission, which agonized over the issue in a series of meetings before reaching a split 3-2 vote for approval several months ago.

Another point has been raised since the commission made that decision.

Commissioner Louis Schenone has resigned and been replaced by Lori Radisch.

Whether Mrs. Radisch, employed by the Town of Portola Valley, may vote on the issue will be decided by the district attorney's office this week, it was learned.

Mrs. Radisch said she does not wear "labels."

As to whether she considered herself an environmentalist or a pro-development, Mrs. Radisch said, "I prefer to think that I vote on the issues."

If she is unable to vote, it is anticipated the commission will remain in a 2-2 deadlock.

This would send the matter back to the supervisors without action and, in all probability, the modified decision would stand.

Grand Jury Transcript

Witnesses Ascribe Ottoboni Motives

By DUANE SANDUL

Former Colma Police Chief Raymond John Ottoboni, under indictment along with his parents for alleged voter fraud, was seeking a return to the Colma City Council in order to oust the present police chief and to form a bloc to "run Colma as they wished," according to witnesses at a recent San Mateo County Grand Jury session.

The transcript of the Grand Jury hearing contains the first public disclosure of the alleged facts behind the indictment last month against Ottoboni, 34, his father, Raymond Dominic Ottoboni, 71, a councilman in Colma for 23 years, and the senior Ottoboni's wife, Mae, 69.

Each is charged with conspiracy and four other felonies involving an alleged scheme to falsely register four persons in Colma so that they would vote in the recent municipal election for the junior Ottoboni and one other person to be designated by him. The younger Ottoboni is also charged with eight misdemeanors for allegedly registering the persons to vote.

The younger Ottoboni, indicted about four weeks before the March 2 election, lost in his bid to rejoin his father on the council by only one vote.

Each of the defendants has pleaded innocent. Trial is scheduled for July 12.

Attorneys Zerne P. Haning III of San Carlos and Lois Scampini of Redwood City, each contacted by The Times, lashed out at the Grand Jury proceedings, contending that witnesses were allowed to render opinions rather than facts.

The Grand Jury is accusing the Ottobonis of conspiring to have four persons — two of them undercover police agents — pretend that they lived at a home owned by the senior Ottoboni in order to vote for the son.

The indictment alleges that the senior Ottoboni and his wife furnished the apartment and provided rental agreements, after the junior Ottoboni made the arrangements with the four persons and registered them.

Mayors Vow Fight on Tax

Moscone Commuter Proposal

NORTH COUNTY EDITION

THE POST

Vol. 30, No. 13 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1976

Retaliation!

This could be the response of San Mateo County if a proposal by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone to impose a commuter tax succeeds.

It was voiced Friday night by Mayor Leo Padreddii of South San Francisco as the San Mateo County Council of Mayors held its monthly meeting in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in San Mateo.

The mayors, without a dissenting voice, adopted a resolution which declared their "most vehement opposition against Mayor Moscone's ill-advised, inappropriate and illegal proposal," and urged "the Supervisors of San Francisco to refrain from repeating the legal and political debacle which resulted from San Francisco's last effort to impose a commuter tax."

The resolution asserted that "not only have the California Courts unequivocally declared that taxes of this type are patently unconstitutional, but said tax would be oppressive, divisive and shortsighted in that commuters contribute substantially to the vitality and financial base of San Francisco and yet cost the city little in services."

Ex-Mayor Robert A. Jones of Belmont, chairman of the Mayors' Council, noted that an absence of discussion against the resolution showed its importance, and maintained that San Mateo mayors have been unsuccessful in their attempts to arrange a meeting with Moscone to discuss mutual problems between the two counties.

"The result would be," Padreddii said, " to put a tax on the residents of San Mateo County, and then we would put a tax on San Francisco, and all we would be doing is fighting each other."

A second motion to send the resolution to state federal legislators was adopted with only Brisbane abstaining.

Ray Letsinger, assistant city manager of Daly City, reported that the Association of Bay Area Governments has asked county support that it be represented on a 44-member Environmental Protection Agency.

He said that city managers of the county had no warning of the A.B.A.G. proposal when it was presented to the County Managers Asspciation recently.

According to Letsinger, the county planning department will submit a number of recommendations to the Board of Supervisors on April 6, among which will

Rowe Suggests Payment for Annexations

With the demise of the Broadmoor Police District anticipated within the next 15 months because of budgetary problems, Daly City City Manager David Rowe Monday proposed that all future annexing properties pay to get into the city.

How much?

"There have been some cities that charge by the acreage. I would probably recommend charging by population — perhaps between $100 and $1,000 per head," Rowe said. Between 8,000 and 10,000 people live in Broadmoor.

Rowe said the practice of charging properties wanting to annex to an established city "is quite common."

This new approach by Rowe was seen as a complete turnabout from two years ago when Daly City officials were making overtures to Broadmoor to come into Daly City, political observers noted.

In 1974, meetings of Broadmoor and Daly City officials were held in an effort to work out the mechanics of the district joining the city.

Rowe's "annexation fee" proposal comes on the heels of last week's decision by the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) placing a zero sphere of influence on Broadmoor.

At that same meeting, without fanfare or prior notification, LAFCO members also passed a policy statement prohibiting "piecemeal annexation" of Broadmoor properties by Daly City.

Broadmoor would, in the future, have to be annexed to Daly City in an "all or nothing" move, it was understood.

Broadmoor residents blame Daly City for their financial plight because of the alleged steady erosion of the district's tax base through piecemal annexation in recent years.

LAFCO's decision not to allow this sort of annexation to continue in Broadmoor will have no affect on the district going broke on July 1, 1977, according to Police Chief Merrill Baxley.

Baxley said the district had to deplete its reserve fund to meet this year's budget.

Under existing law, Broadmoor must submit a full year's budget to the Board of Supervisors annually.

The only salvation for Broadmoor is some sort of property tax amendment by the State Legislature that would allow property owners to increase their tax burden, if the majority of the property owners want to continue the police district as it now exists. Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy was told two weeks ago by a group of

Car Goes Through Windows

Joan Russell, 40, of 168 Westlake Ave., Daly City lost control of her car Saturday about 6 a.m. and jumped a curb on Mission Street.

Before coming to a full stop, police said, Miss Russell's car skidded up over the curbing, hit a parked 1976 Fiat and pushed it through three show windows of the Massagli Motor Co. at 6800 Mission St., Daly City.

No one was hurt in the wreck. Damage to the windows was estimated at $1,300.

Company mechanics today were making estimates of the damage to the new car, which was "extensively damaged," according to police.

HONORED

Dorothy Malone, a reading specialist, and parent and artist Ernie Hoffman were recently honored by the Abraham Lincoln School PTA with the organization's 1976 honorary service award. Dorothy Malone introduced a reading program used by the whole school district while Hoffman works as a community liaison as well as in the classroom.

Polonsky 'Clears' Architect

By FRANK LaPIERRE

A member of the Daly City redevelopment area planning team is not involved in any conflict of interest dealings, Albert Polonsky, Daly City city attorney, informed the council Monday.

For the past two months, Polonsky's office had conducted an investigation of Albert Seyranian, a principal in the joint-venture redevelopment team of D'Amico & Associates and Seyranian & Associates, now under contract to Daly City.

The investigation was prompted by insinuations that Seyranian was involved in a conflict of interest with certain property owners in the redevelopment target area.

The target area currently involves only those areas along Junipero Serra Boulevard and Mission Street.

In December 1974, Seyranian agreed to draft plans for some property owners in the Junipero Serra-John Daly Boulevard area. This was before he was contracted to the city as a consultant, Polonsky said.

Polonsky named as those involved in the matter Louis and Robert Rosenhauer, Dominic Satoro and Ugo Fantozzi — all substantial property owners in the redevelopment area.

Seyranian was to prepare plans on how the properties might be developed. No specifications for construction were prepared, it was learned.

Upon learning he was one of the three finalists being considered as a consultant to the city's Redevelopment Agency to draft plans for rehabilitation of the entire area, Seyranian backed out of the deal, Polonsky said.

The Rosenhauer brothers are connected with Lindsey Realtors, 55 John Daly Blvd., Daly City, Polonsky explained.

Seyranian left the plans with the Rosenhauers on his departure. The listing for the property ran out in December 1975 and was not renewed, Polonsky told the council.

During a later meeting with members of the Redevelopment Agency's Project Area Committee, a member of the joint venture consultant team brought out a plan for a crosswalk between the Bay Area Rapid Transit District and the south side of the road — said to be similar to a plan drafted by Seyranian for the property owners.

While noting that Seyranian showed "poor judgement" for not picking up the plans from Lindsey Company when he left and for not immediately informing the city of his past connections in the redevelopment area, Polonsky went on to exonerate Seyranian from any conflict of interest dealings.

Polonsky's opinion appeared to satisfy the council members.

Mayor Tony Giammona said he was satisfied with the city attorney's report and commented, "We can live with it."

Life Term In Kidnap

Vista Mar Re-naming Ceremony

The bronze plaque is struck, the glee club is rehearsed, the dignitaries have been summoned, and the Jefferson School District is ready to rededicate the Marjorie H. Tobias School at 4 p.m., April 2.

Vista Mar School at 725 Southgate was chosen as the most appropriate site to dedicate, as it was the last regular principalship in which Miss Tobias served before her retirement and subsequent assignment to a central office consultancy. She was also the first principal of Vista Mar.

Miss Tobias' long career in the Jefferson School District has included such feats as opening three schools in one year as principal-in-charge with two assistants. During that year, some students were on triple-session, and the student bodies were housed in five buildings.

Many of the community's leading citizens are former students of Miss Tobias. They recall her care and teaching with deep respect and sincere affection. By renaming the school for her, the board and administration hopes to express the community's appreciation for her services beyond the line of duty.

Schumacher Petition Denied

The California Supreme Court Friday afternoon unanimously denied a petition filed by Daly City Councilman William Schumacher asking that Assemblyman John Foran be blocked from entering the Sixth District Senate race.

Meeting in San Francisco, the Supreme Court upheld a lower court ruling made last week by Superior Court Judge Henry Rolph, who rejected Schumacher's request for a temporary restraining order aimed at blocking Foran's filing for the state senate seat.

Schumacher, also a candidate for the Sixth District Senate seat, argued that Foran is ineligible to run against him because he did not live within the Sixth District at least a year before filing his nomination papers.

The councilman contended that the state constitution requires that a candidate reside in the district in which he plans to run for state office for one year.

Last week Judge Rolph also rejected a "show cause order" which, if granted, would have placed a permanent injunction against acceptance of Foran's nomination papers in both San Francisco and San Mateo Counties.

Schumacher and Robert St. Clair, also a candidate for the Sixth District seat, have labeled Foran a "carpetbagger" because he moved into the Sixth District shortly before announcing his intention to run for the senate.

Foran has called the charge "absolutely absurd."

He said he had carefully investigated the "legality of my filing" before making his decision to vacate his assembly seat and run for the senate.

Earlier this month the office of the Secretary of State ruled that a 30-day residency requirement set for local offices applied also to state offices.

A special election to fill the Sixth District Senate seat, vacated by recently elected San Francisco Mayor George Moscone, will be held in May.

Schumacher and Foran were unavailable for comment.

Ottoboni

the four persons allegedly falsely registered as David Lemish, Art Ray, Tony Epperson and Hattie Ferretti. Epperson and Miss Ferretti, who were actually undercover agents, were posing as sweethearts and used aliases.

The senior Ottoboni, according to Epperson, said that "because of the bad deal that junior had received (when he was demoted as chief of police and later fired as a patrolman), he felt he was justified in having us assume addresses and vote for him."

At the Grand Jury hearing on Feb. 9, prosecutor Stanley B. Poling asked Epperson, who had assumed an alias of Andy Morris in the investigation, whether Ottoboni "indicated his goal in having you vote for him?"

According to the transcript, Epperson replied: "Yes. He felt that he'd been given a raw deal in (being) ousted from the Colma Police Department (in late 1975). He wanted to be elected as a city councilman with his father and one other person who is sympathetic to their cause so they would have a majority vote and be able to get the chief of police out of power, and run Colma as they wished."

Poling also asked Ray, who brought the alleged scheme to the attention of the district attorney's office in 1975 and then worked undercover for them, if Ottoboni "expressed any dissatisfaction with the Colma city government or the chief of police?"

According to the transcript, Ray replied, "Yes. He said that he felt that he had been treated unfairly in his demotion from chief to patrolman and that one way or another, either legal or illegal, he was going to get the new chief and the other people responsible for his demotion."

According to city records, Ottoboni was demoted from chief to patrolman in February 1974, after three years as chief, and in September 1975 he was fired for alleged unofficerlike conduct.

At the time of his appointment to chief of police, Ottoboni served on the council with his father. Both men are past mayors of the cemetery town.

According to testimony from Epperson and Ray, promises were made by Ottoboni.

"Did he relate any further details of what the arrangement was to be?" Poling asked Epperson.

"Yes, he indicated that in doing this favor for him he would be able to do just about anything we asked," Epperson replied. "If we ever got in trouble in Colma, he would make sure it was taken care of. He indicated that he wanted Ray and I to assume the (false) address as quick as we could."

Ray testified that Ottobbni "said if I helped him and he wins the election that he would put me on as a Colma reserve for a while and then as Colma police officer."

Miss Scampini, who represents the older Ottoboni and his wife, made this comment about the transcript:

"As is typical with Grand Jury proceedings, where the defense has no right to be represented, the witnesses are free to testify to their opinions and not facts, and that's exactly what happened here.

"As far as Mr. and Mrs. Ottoboni are concerned, as far as they knew, all four of these people were going to be actual residents for the requisite period (to vote)."

She added that contentions to the contrary testified to by Epperson and Ferretti "were not true."

Haning echoed Miss Scampini, and added: "At grand jury proceedings, witnesses are permitted to say anthing they want regardless of the accuracy of their testimony or the basis of their opinion. Note the number of times that the witnesses voiced opinions or conclusions opposed to quoting Ottoboni. It's a one-sided transcript, and we didn't have an opportunity to cross-examine.

"You have to appreciate that the defense didn't have an opportunity to cross-examine, and that the Ottobonis didn't have an opportunity to tell their story.

"Our idea of rebuttal is cross-examination of witnesses, and we've been excluded. It's unfortunate that the case went before a grand jury rather than a filing of a complaint and a preliminary hearing where these things would have been aired and we would have had our right to object and cross-examine."

As for the specific allegations concerning his client, Haning deferred comments, contending that it was improper for him to "talk about the case prior to trial."

Board Studies Selling Land, School Closing

By JANET PARKER

A list of 15 far-reaching recommendations has been handed by the South San Francisco School District Finance Advisory Committee to the Board of Trustees.

After a three-month study, the commission has recommended — among other things — that the district sell its surplus land, study the possible closing of one or more elementary schools and reconsider providing school buses where municipal bus transportation is available.

Committee chairman Eugene Amato recently presented the report to the trustees.

Completion of the report allows Associate Supt. Joe Smith to begin compiling the South San Francisco Unified School District 1976-77 preliminary budget.

Although the board will not discuss the report until it has had an opportunity to study the recommendations, the trustees agreed to make copies available to the public.

"These recommendations are not intended to degrade any of the district's programs or belittle any of the district's personnel," Amato told the board.

This is the third year SSFUSD has had a Citizen Finance Advisory Committee assist in budget preparation. All 21 of the schools were represented on the committee.

The report made no specific recommendations concerning employe salaries. Amato, who has been on the committee all three years, said salary recommendations always have been avoided by the committee.

"We didn't feel the money would be available, so, there was no way we could make a recommendation," Amato said. Salaries, he said, would be an issue for the employes and trustees to negotiate.

At one point, the committee considered recommending that administrators receive 60 per cent of the cost-of-living salary increase teachers may receive this year. Committee members eventually rejected that suggestion, however.

The committee did recommend that the district "re-examine the need for 7.5 counselors at the junior high level."

Each of the four junior high schools have two counselors, ld8o,1selors, one of them part-time.

Amato said the committee took a random sampling of student opinion concerning counseling services at three of the junior high schools.

"We felt there is a lack of communication," Amato said. "The junior high kids are just not getting to the counselors."

The recommendation, he noted, asks only for an evaluation — and not necessarily a cutback — in counseling personnel. The trustees could decide to increase the number of junior high counselors, Amato said.

Also in the area of personnel, the committee recommended that the trustees consider the advantages of having paid, part-time librarians in kindergarten through sixth-grade schools.

Volunteers now staff the elementary school libraries. Amato said committee members thought paid librarians could relieve elementary school teachers once a day to provide them a "prep-period."

The major money-saving recommendation made by the committee was for the sale of one or more excess pieces of school property.

Funds from the sale or sales, the committee reported, could be used to cover the costs of installing temporary buildings at either the future West Park Elementary School or Serramonte Junior High School sites for an adult education program. Both sites presently are vacant.

As a result, the district would no longer be required to pay the state penalty costs for undeveloped property. Expansion of adult education to those sites would mean added revenue for the school district.

The committee estimated that the district would save $11,190 annually on the Serramonte site and $3,450 on the West Park Site. The committee also estimated a revenue increase of $79,000 if the adult program is expanded to the two sites. Amato said a committee member worked out the financial impact and that the district business staff would need to study it in more detail.

The committee also recommended that "the need for school busing in areas where public transportation is available be investigated."

Since September, the city has operated a municipal transit system through the San Mateo County Transit District. Bus routes are provided throughout most of the city, except West Winston Manor and the Mayfair areas.

In its recommendation that the board study the possibility of closing one or more elementary schools as a cost-saving measure, the committee urged the board to "involve the total community as much as possible in this decision."

The committee also indicated it had discussed discord between the SSFUSD Classroom Teachers Association and the administration. The committee said the two factions are not "pulling in the same direction toward the same goal" and recommended that the teachers and administrators work together.

"This effort, we feel, will bring about a monetary savings to the taxpayer and be extremely beneficial to the student's education," the committee reported.

The committee also recommended that:

• The district implement the full teacher evaluation required of the Stull Bill and that goals and competency standards for all programs be placed in priority order. The teacher evaluation procedure has been tied up in negotiations.

• Funds be provided for a district-wide program for students whose English is limited.

• The trustees initiate an energy conservation program throughout the district.

• Top priority be given to the classified department needs and assessment study released last week.

be the setting of priorities on planning for the next three or four years.

Under the A.B.A.G. proposal, he warned, regional planning priorities would be funnelled through the regional agency to determine how $4.2 million in federal funds are to be allocated to the nine Bay Counties for air, water, wastewater and pollution control and for future planning.

Letsinger noted that San Mateo County has only two representatives on the regional 44-member board, Supervisor Jean Fassler and Mayor William H. Hardwick of Belmont. He warned that the managers were not asked for any input, and if the cities are as in the dark as their managers are, the matter should be taken back to city councils for study.

The mayors expressed concern that they have been unable to get any response from the State Attorney General's office if state mandated programs without allocation of funds are legal, and agreed to send letters to both state and federal legislators expressing concern over the matter.

Estimates indicate that the tax rate of property owners would have to be raised about double — to $1.50 per $100 of assessed valuation in order to continue the district.

Meanwhile, Daly City has three pending annexation applications: the Lake Merced Country Club in unincorporated Colma, the Sterling Park area and the giant QFI store, both in Broadmoor east of the Junipero Serra Freeway.

All were made about a year ago, before LAFCO decided to slap a moratorium on further annexation of Broadmoor by Daly City.

While Rowe feels the golf course annexation will not hit any snags before LAFCO, he told the council the QFI and Sterling Park applications would serve as a sort of "test case" on LAFCO's new policy of prohibiting

• Careunit for Alcoholics

Daly City's Mary's Help Hospital welcomed the first five alcoholics to the hospital's new "careunit." Our staff writer Janet Reinka pinpointed the goals of a team of doctors, nurses and social workers. Teaching the alcoholic not to feel guilty is among the long range aims.

• A Costly Mistake In JESD

Jefferson Elementary School District officials called "an honest mistake" the failure of a portable building (to be used as a day care center) to be located where authorized on the George Washington school playground. But, a dispatch from our correspondent Michael Roberts explained that the mistake — which no one admits making — will cost $5,535 to correct.

• Open Space Funding Shelved

The State Natural Resources and Wildlife Committee shelves until April 1 action on Senate Bill 1455, which would provide $4 million in state funds to purchase open space on San Bruno Mountain.

• Piecemeal Annexation Opposed

The Local Area Formation Commission, although placing Broadmoor and unincorporated Colma areas Daly City's "sphere of influence," did urge Daly City to resist piecemeal annexation, preferring to see, instead, it said, annexation of all the unincorporated lands.

• Chamber's Move Rapped

The president of the Mission Merchants Association, George Smith, condemned the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce's plan to move from its present Mission Street location to an office in the Social Security building being built in the Civic Center area.

• DC Woman Dies In Crash

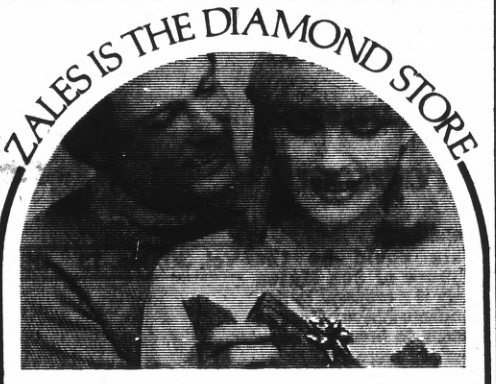

Mrs. Rochelle Polett of 251 88th St., Apt. 3, Daly City, was killed instantly, Pacifica police reported, when her auto slid out of control on wet pavement on Skyline Boulevard.

• Would-be Developer Disappointed

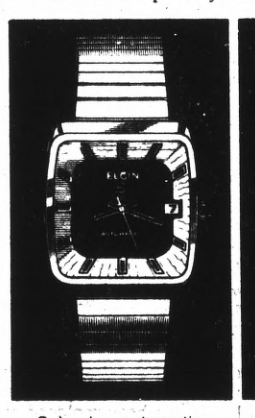

Robert L. Follett, general manager of the proposed Crocker Hills community San Bruno Mountain, said he was "disappointed" with the supervisors' recent slimming down of the project. Follett called the action a condemnation of his property.

SSF Duplex Wins Support

Robert Gomez may build a duplex on his property provided he meets special safety conditions required by the South San Francisco Planning Commission.

Gomez had asked that he be able to build two units behind two older vacant houses at 550 and 552 Baden Ave., near Baden High School.

Although the planning staff recommended approval of the project this week, they asked that Gomez be required to remove the house at 552 Baden Ave. for better emergency vehicle access to the new buildings in the rear before any construction begins.

They also asked that he submit an overall plan showing how he would develop the property, if he decided to later. A maximum of seven units would be permitted by the building code.

Gomez' attorney, William Galston of South San Francisco, strongly objected to both conditions.

Planning Commissioner Roberta Teglia excused herself from acting on the item because she owns property within 300 feet of the Gomez site. She then spoke against the application in a public hearing.

Mrs. Teglia said the project should be rejected unless the existing older buildings on the property are brought up to city codes.

Building inspector Austin Lynch reported nine violations of city building codes in each of the two houses.

However, Chief Building Inspector Roy Ghilardi pointed out that unless the new structures are attached to the existing older houses, the city cannot require Gomez to bring his houses up to current building standards.

"Hazardous conditions to life and safety of the occupants of the structure shall be corrected as soon as possible," Ghilardi reported. "Mr. Gomez is aware of the hazardous conditions and has started making corrections."

"I believe there is adequate access between the two buildings to get to the back of the property," Galston said.

The staff, however, disagreed. Zoning administrator William Costanzo said the separation between the houses at 550 and 552 Baden Ave. is about three feet less than required by code. Also, the margin on each side of the buildings is substandard for fire safety.

Costanzo said that it would be more detrimental to retain 552 Baden Ave. since there is not enough room from side property lines to allow for emergency vehicle access. The other house, he said, would not constitute an immediate fire hazard.

The planning staff asked that the 550 Baden Ave. building be removed within 10 years.

The commission unanimously approved the project. Despite the protests of Galston, the safety conditions were included. Gomez can appeal the decision to the City Council.

San Bruno Bus Depot To Close

San Bruno's Greyhound Bus Lines' depot at 820 El Camino Real will close at the end of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jarvien, independent commissioned agents who operate the depot, said they had notified Greyhound early this month that they plan to close the depot "for financial reasons."

"Working for Greyhound is taking time away from another business we have that is more profitable," said Mrs. Jarvien.

The couple, who purchased the building and took over operation of the Greyhound depot last November, said they would maintain the Western Union office at the station.

Parker Waterson, a spokesman for Greyhound, said last week he would urge the couple to keep the depot open for another month, until Greyhound can find another location.

"We don't want to lose representation in San Bruno," said Waterson. "Our package express customers are important to us there."

Waterson said that if Greyhound could not find another location for a depot, San Bruno customers would have to deposit and pick up packages at either the Burlingame or South San Francisco depots.

Skyline Student Dies

An 18-year-old Skyline College student was instantly killed in Pacifica early today when he was thrown from his car after it left Cabrillo Highway in Pacifica and flew an estimated 140-feet through the air.

According to Highway Patrolman Yribarron, Richard H. Smetzer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Smetzer of 131 Del Notre Drive, San Bruno, was apparently racing another car southbound on the highway north of Sharp Park Road and traveling in excess of 90 miles per hour when Smetzer lost control of his vehicle. He said the car flew off the top of an embankment, hit a tree, and Smetzer's body was thrown another 20 feet, landing in the middle of Francisco Boulevard below the state highway.

Youth Held on Kidnap Charge

A 16-year-old runaway from Pennsylvania who hitched a ride from a Burlingame man at 2 a.m. today in San Francisco, pulled a gun on the driver, told him he had killed people before, wouldn't hesitate again and ordered the victim to drive to his Burlingame apartment.

The victim, Charles Ray Blundell, 42, of 789 El Camino Real, said once in the apartment, the youth tied Blundell to the posts of his bed with his neckties and proceeded to ransack the apartment, meanwhile, continually threatening him with the gun.

The youth was captured after the three-hour ordeal as he sought to make his escape in Blundell's car piled with his belongings. Officer Dennis Schneider of Burlingame, who was called by Blundell after he managed to free himself, said the stop was made in San Bruno at 5 a.m.

Blundell said during the three-hour harrowing experience, the youth kept continually talking. He offered his victim a beer and cigarette after helping himself to some as he went about collecting Blundell's property and making trips to Blundell's car with a stereo, television sets and other property.

Blundell told Officer Schneider that throughout the time he was bound to the bed, the youth kept threatening him with the fully-loaded, small-caliber automatic pistol, occasionally holding it to his head.

Officer Schneider said Blundell apparently felt sorry for the young hitchhiker when he spotted him standing at the corner of 6th and Market Streets in San Francisco.

As the youth got into the car, he promptly pulled the gun on Blundell and proceeded to threaten and harass him, Schneider said Blundell told him. He said he was in fear of his life and described the juvenile as "hyper-active." He could not tell if he was under the influence of drugs.

During the ransacking of Blundell's apartment the accused robber-kidnapper kept up a running conversation as he hauled Blundell's personal property out to Blundell's car.

Once the car was loaded, the hitch-hiker bid his victim farewell and left. Blundell promptly freed himself and watched through a window as the youth took off in Blundell's 1974-model auto, heading north on El Camino Real.

Schneider said the victim immediately called police, gave him the direction in which the youth had taken off. He was stopped in San Bruno.

He was taken back to Burlingame and placed in the city jail where he was to be interrogated today. Schneider said a check with Pennsylvania authorities indicated the juvenile is known to them.

Schneider said so far the youth is booked on kidnapping, armed robbery, auto theft and possession of stolen goods.

Jefferson Ouster Re-Hearing Delayed

The Jefferson Elementary School District has received a one-week delay in its bid for a re-hearing before the Court of Appeals in San Francisco regarding a recent decision on ousted school official Roger Barthuli.

In a reversal of a lower court decision, the Court of Appeals recently ruled that Barthuli, former JESD assistant superintendent for business, must be reinstated and procedures for his dismissal re-initiated.

The decision met with a cool response from the majority of the JESD Board, which indicated it would take the issue to the State Supreme Court, if necessary.

Meanwhile, Trustee Beverly Forrester said this week that attorney Keith Breon had been replaced as the district's legal representative with attorney William Johnson of Oakland.

The outspoken school trustee said it was decided to replace Breon, himself a former JESD acting school superintendent, "because he is the subject of a criminal investigation now being conducted by the United States Attorney General's Office in regards to (a federal funding school program), an application submitted in 1973."

Mrs. Forrester said the board of trustees on Dec. 22, 1975, received from U.S. Attorney James L. Browning confirmation that "certain individuals" were subject to criminal investigation in connection with the alleged fraudulent government funding application for the district's ESAA (Emergency School Aid Act).

Barthuli's contract with the district was terminated some two years ago. No mention of back pay was made in the Court of Appeals decision.

Tax Deductions for Seniors Told

Recent changes in the tax law provide some helpful information. A pamphlet listing them is available through the office of Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, 345-E Serramonte Plaza, Daly City. Those who wish a copy may get it by writing or telephoning.

There are new deductions which senior citizens can make on their income tax returns which will help reduce the routine overpayment of income taxes which occurs every year.

Papan notes the standard deduction for returns which are not itemized has been increased from a maximum of $2,000 to $2,300 for singles and $2,600 for couples.

A "new home" credit will qualify many for a reduction or even elimination of taxes owed. Those who purchased newly built homes or condominiums between March 12 and Dec. 31, 1975, and who have moved in before the end of 1976, are entitled to a 5 percent tax credit of the purchase price up to a maximum of $2,000 The are additional examples of allowable deductions, according to the lawmaker.

He further reminds that anyone who discovers he or she has overpaid taxes in the past can recover them by filing an amended return claim (Form 1040-X) within three years after the original return was sent in.

Picture Framing Classes Offered

Information about framing will be covered in two three-hour workshops offered by the Community Services Office of Skyline College April 3 and 10 from 9:30 a.m. to noon in Room 1105, Building 1 at Skyline College.

Cutting mats and selecting frames and tools will be demonstrated, as well as texturing, gold-leafing, toning, repairing and building the basic frame.

Anastasia Cole, interior designer and college instructor, will also provide practical information on what goes into the making of an etching, serigraph and block print; how to begin an art collection; putting together a picture wall.

The fee is $15 and participants are invited to bring along any personal framing problems.

Course information can be found on Community Service brochures which are available from libraries in north San Mateo County. Interested persons may also register at the Main Theater Box Office on campus between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays. For additional information call 355-7000, extension 231.

Workshop

The Daly City Recreation Department announces a spring puppet workshop for children who are seven years of age and older.

The program will include the history of hand, rod, string, and finger puppets and the actual construction of one paper mache hand puppet.

The eight-week program will be held Tuesdays at the Westlake Park Clubhouse from 4-5 p.m., under the instruction of Ron Wells, drama specialist.

There is a $2 supply fee per student. Registration deadline is April 5. Advanced registration is required and fees will not be taken at the class.

To register, send name, address including city and zip code, daytime phone and correct fee to the Daly City Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd., Daly City 94014.

For further information, call 992-5356.

Suicide: Dr. Fort To Talk

"Suicide — The Coming Way to Go?" will be the topic of discussion by a panel of physicians at the tenth dinner meeting of the Suicide Prevention Center of San Mateo County on April 9 at the Sheraton Inn in Burlingame.

Presenting different viewpoints on the rights of the individual to terminate his own life versus the rights and responsibilities of society will be Joel Fort, M.D., Founder, Fort Help, National Center for Solving Special Social and Health Problems; Jerome Motto, M.D., Professor of Psychiatry, University of California School of Medicine, and Secretary-General, International Association of Suicide Prevention; and George Pickett, M.D., Director, San Mateo County Department of Health and Welfare.

The dinner is open to the public, with tickets at $9.50 each available at the center, 274 West 20th Ave., San Mateo.

Dr. Fort, prominent most recently for his testimony as a prosecution witness in the Hearst trial, will elaborate on the individual's right to suicide, while Dr. Motto will discuss the individual's right to seek and receive help and society's responsibility to provide such help.

The Suicide Prevention Center, a non-profit mental health organization, maintains a 24-hour phone service, drop-in center and outreach program. All services are free of charge and are staffed by trained volunteers to meet the varied needs of people in distress. The center can be reached by calling 349-HOPE.

Samuel Chandler

There's a song in the air
There's magic;
There's movement:
Dancing, whistling, singing.

"Man and music are inseparable," writes Kate Smith.

In music, five hundred years of American history passes in a moment tying the ages together.

"Let's thank them all," Pete Seeger wrote.

"The song makers, long dead and nameless:
the joky boys, the singing grandparents, the fun lovers, who carried the songs along;
The serious collectors and librarians who copied
them down for us;
The inkstained printers and the chemical papermakers and the inventors of their machines—
And the desk girls and countermen who saw it to our hands;
Let's thank them all, and be glad that we are part of the chain."

From Pennsylvania Dutch came one of the songs that Pete Seeger plucked from the airways and sang to remind Americans of the experiences of the past "that made the United States the land they know today."

When I first came to this land
I was not a wealthy man
So I got myself a shack, cow, duck, wife, run for your life
I did what I could
And I called my shack "Break my back."
But the land was sweet and good,
And I did what I could,
Called my cow "no milk now"
And I called my shack "Break my back,"
But the land was sweet and good
And I did what I could etc.

Pete Seeger put his songs into a book entitled "American Favorite Ballads." "If you love one of these songs," he wrote, "you can make it your own by singing it; through the years it will become part of your life as little by little you change the tune in subtle ways, or add or subtract verses."

Here is "Home On the Range," "Sometimes I Feel Like A Motherless Child," "Goodnight Irene" and "The Streets of Laredo." "Such songs make a history," declares Moses Asch in the forward to Pete Seeger's book, "a history that is filled with the heartaches, triumphs, disasters and love that have molded us all into a common experience."

Beside songs of hope there are songs of heartache. "Frankie and Johnny," "The Big Rock Candy Mountain" and "Old Dan Tucker" — all of them songs of the American experience. Pure American. Use them, writes Pete Seeger. Sing them your American songs. "Get your whole family into the fun," he urges, paraphrasing Woody Guthrie. "Get papa. Get Mama. Get brother. Get sister. Get Aunty . . . the friends — the neighbors — Everybody" and sing. It's an American thing to do.

Carnival Night Is Big Hit

The March meeting of Vista Mar's Pack 362 turned into one of the best of the year, according to pack leaders.

It was carnival night.

Den 1 sponsored the Snoopy toss booth, Den 2 leaders manned the Clown bean bag toss, Den 3 the dart throw and Webelos Den 5 was in charge of the wettest booth — the Slug-a-Mug.

Proceeds from the booths and refreshment sales went to supplement the treasury of Pack 362, which has many more events planned for the scouting year.

Awards given that night included Den 2, Denny Siebert, Bear badge, gold arrow; Chris Thompson, silver arrow; Den 5, Dean Rivera and Tony Guillary, artist; Eric Steeg, traveler; Rodney Silva, craftsman, artist; Keith Furst, athlete, artist; Den 6, Cesar Salmeron, Bobcat badge.

The softball team, coached by Gene Smith, has roared to life with outstanding pitching, fielding and hitting.

They have won their first three games with scores of 34-0, 14-3 and 14-4, and plan to continue on their winning streak throughout the season.

Developer Is Disappointed

Robert L. Follett, general manager of the proposed Crocker Hills community San Bruno Mountain, said he was "disappointed" with the supervisors' recent slimming down of the project. Follett called the action a condemnation of his property.

Fashion Show Is Scheduled

Marion Swanson

Marion Swanson, 1976 Fashion Show Chairman for the Holy Angels Women's Guild, invites the public to a special bicentennial fashion show and luncheon, "A Star-Spangled Affair" April 10 at noon at the California Golf Club in South San Francisco.

Tickets are now on sale at $8 per person and will benefit Holy Angels School and Parish. For reservations, please contact Ann Barner in care of Holy Angels' School.

Aging Unit Hearings Scheduled

The San Mateo County Agency on Aging Area Plan 2 will be the subject of four public hearings called by Chairperson Dr. Bonny Russell of Atherton.

The hearings will be held: April 2 at 2 p.m. in the County Government Center in Redwood City; April 5 at Oddstad Park in Pacifica at 1 p.m.; April 7 in Lincoln Park in Daly City at 11 a.m.; and April 8 at Beresford Recreation Center in San Mateo at 10 a.m.

Negotiations Move Ahead

The trustees of the San Mateo Community College District Wednesday night approved a wage and fringe benefit counter-offer for their certificated employes.

The district has offered the teachers a 1976-77 package worth an estimated $785,211, or 5.9 per cent above current levels. Those figures include normal step increases.

The instructors have asked for an 8.5 per cent cost-of-living raise, along with several other improvements in their contract.

An effort on both sides is being made to conclude the 1976-77 wage negotiations as soon as possible to avoid complications caused by the introduction of collective bargaining later in the year.

The college district is in the midst of deciding which teacher group, the American Federation of Teachers or the California Teachers Association, will become the official bargaining representative for the instructors.

This sorting out process could extend well into 1977. To have the salary issue become part of all this could delay any raises indefinitely.

In other action, the trustees:

• Voted to oppose a state community college board proposal to alter the financing of two-year institutions. According to the trustees' resolution, if the new plan were approved at the state level, it would cost the local district money and it would shift the burden of paying for San Mateo County community colleges even further onto the local taxpayer.

• Approved payment of nearly $1,900 to an architect for work done on a feasibility study involving relocation of the district's administrative offices. There is a move to place those offices on district property, perhaps at the College of San Mateo. Presently, the offices are located in leased facilities in San Mateo.

• Heard Trustee James Tormey complain about what he termed ill treatment at the hands of certain instructors at Skyline College in San Bruno. Tormey had been scheduled to meet with them several months ago but couldn't. The teachers, said Tormey, have lately said he "refused" to meet with them. He said that was not true.

State Staff Working On Bicycle Trails

The state Department of Parks and Recreation staff is working on plans for three recently authorized bikeway projects, including the Crystal Springs Bikeway along the reservoir, it was announced today.

Department director Herb Rhodes said a resolution this week by the Energy Conservation and Development Commission lends important support to his department's bicycle trail program.

The commission resolved that more persons should be encouraged to bicycle more miles by such measures as teaching bicycle safety, improving streets and highways for bicycle use, providing bikeways separated from motor traffic, providing secure, convenient bicycle parking, encouraging acceptance of bicycles as baggage on public and commercial transportation, providing low-cost overnight facilities for bicyclists, and [illegible] bicycling as a sport.

The commissioners noted that increasing numbers of people are riding bicycles for recreation and basic transportation.

Vans Got Lost

Modern Woes for DeAnza

A parade unit of the Juan Bautista de Anza expedition this morning ran into the twentieth-century kind of snag the actual trek would never have faced.

On the way to the Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City, where their horse vans had to be taken before the expedition could head out, the drivers got lost.

But the 14 colorfully dressed riders from San Mateo County summoned enough "horsepower" to arrive at the first scheduled stop — a breakfast in Millbrae — only 45 minutes late.

There were other anachronisms, too. When the riders stopped near the railroad tracks at the corner of California Way and Millbrae Avenue where a police escort was waiting, riders solemnly intoned, "We're hungry."

But it was their horses, sweating after the brisk ride and still with thick winter coats, who ate first.

As the riders posed for pictures and presented the Mayor Millbrae with a simulated parchment certificate commemorating the ride, the horses helped themselves to grass near the Millbrae Baptist Church.

On hand for the arrival was 16-year-old Padre Font, also known as John Long of Redwood City, dressed in a flowing brown robe and a flat black hat. The padre, who had been scheduled to ride muleback with the others, decided at the last minute against it of everything — the storm drains and stuff."

All the riders, from Jerry Williams of Redwood City who was selected to portray De Anza, down to 12-year-old Robin Kirby a corporal, were designated ranks in the expedition.

Ex-Planner Blasts Council

A former Pacifica planning commissioner received a commendation for his service to the city Monday and then turned around to criticize the City Council's decision not to reappoint him.

Fred Howard, a planning commissioner for two years, also was a defeated condidate in the March 2 City Council election.

The council's decision not to reappoint Howard became a pre-election controversy with his supporters saying the decision was a political attempt to ruin his campaign.

The council's decision subsequently brought to light a violation of the state's new open meeting laws.

"I can't hand this plaque on my wall and have any respect for it," Howard told the council Monday after Mayor Janice Fulford presented him with mementoes of his service on the commission.

Mrs. Fulford read a proclamation commending Howard for his "outstanding contribution of time and effort for the benefit and welfare of the community."

Howard, who previously was a parks, beaches and recreation commissioner, said he enthusiastically volunteered his time to the city for more than six years.

He said he is very concerned about the reasons he had heard were behind the council's decision not to reappoint him.

Howard was told xy former Mayor Stan Farber in early February that he should resign because he would not be re-appointed. The commissioner then realized his re-appointment had been considered by the City Council in a closed door session, a violation of a new state open meeting law.

That law, effective Jan. 1, requires city councils to consider the appointment and dismissal of commissioners in public session.

The council subsequently handled the matter in a public session. But rather than vote directly on Howard's re-appointment, they voted unanimously to appoint Mrs. Ellie McGuire to the Planning Commission, thereby replacing Howard.

"I'll remember those of you who cast my work away," Howard said.

He later said that through discussions with individual council members he learned that former Councilman Aubrey Lumley, who was up for re-election, was most adamantly opposed to his reappointment. Lumley was not re-elected.

The new state law on commission appointments does not require a city council to discuss its reasoning.

Howard also said that as long as Mrs. Fulford, Farber and Sidney Lorvan are on the council, he will not serve the city on any commission because he has lost respect for them.

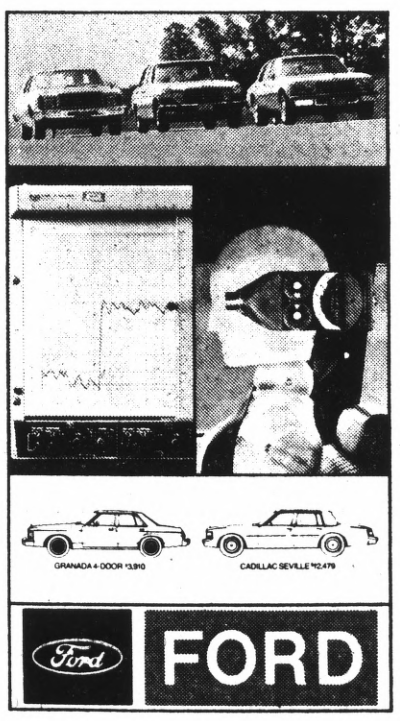

There was an attempt Monday night by new Councilman Nick Gust to reinstate Howard.

Taste of Country Life Is For Youngsters at Grand National

The Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo, April 9-21 at the Cow Palace, will offer many happy hours of fun and excitement for youngsters who love animals and long for a taste of country life. Except for a modest charge for the rodeo. Everything is free.

Always a highlight of Easter vacation, the event will be launched with a huge livestock show April 9-12, when nearly 3,000 steers, swine, sheep, dairy cattle and goats take up residence at the Cow Palace.

Boys and girls attending the exposition will have an opportunity to learn a lot about our meat- and milk-producing animals by reading the plaques describing each breed, talking with youthful 4-H and FFA exhibitors and watching the judging.

The colorful livestock auctions may represent a new experience for youngsters, particularly those residing in cities. Answering the chant of the auctioneer, their parents can bid on meat that will be sold at bargain prices during two days of the exposition.

COUNTRY LIFE

A youngster gets as close as many city children can at the Junior Grand National at the Daly City Cow Palace April 9 through 13. Among the many activities are a horse show, a livestock show, and a rodeo.

Hogs will go on sale at noon April 12, while the lamb and steer auctions are scheduled for 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., respectively, April 13.

April 10 and 11, the best young riders and ropers in the state will compete in the California High School Rodeo Regional Finals. The youthful cowboys and cowgirls will really have their pride on the line since two of pro rodeo's superstars — Joe Alexander, five-time world's bareback champion, and Jim Dix, another pro standout — will be the judges.

Added excitement will be provided by world-famous rodeo clown, D. C. Cogburn, Quail Dobb's comedy car act and Seth Doulton's breathtaking bull-fighting demonstration.

The biggest junior horse show on the West Coast will feature hunter and jumper competition April 15-17. Following an Easter break, western riders will take over the arena, Monday through Wednesday, April 19-21.

The Junior Grand National, now in its 30th year, is the largest show of its type in the nation. It is sponsored by the state to encourage and support the livestock endeavors of California boys and girls.

'America More or Less' Collage Slated in SF

"America More or Less," a staged collage of American history linked by songs and comedy, will be presented by the San Francisco Art Commission in cooperation with the American Conservatory Theater beginning April 21.

The official world premiere of the project will be April 27 at the Marines' Memorial Theater.

Several months ago, the Art Commission engaged major playwrights, including Amiri Baraka (LeRoi Jones), Frank Chin, Michael McClure, Robert Montgomery, Ishmael Reed, Murray Schisgal, Sam Shepherd, Leslie Silko, Terry Southern, Arnold Weinstein and Marvin X, to prepare short plays for this city project.

The first presentation, occasionally serious but rarely reverent, includes contributions by Baraka, Chin, Montgomery, Reed, Silko and Weinstein.

Under the direction of San Franciscans Lee D. Sankowich and John Henry Doyle, the collective effort of leading theater artists to illuminate our historical experience is being coordi- [illegible] in. The multi-media production will be designed by Ron Chse, with stage movement by Raymond Sawyer. Music is being composed by Tony Greco.

"America More or Less" is a look behind the curtains of history to little-known scenes and moments.

'Our Town' Opens Six-evening Run

Staged with its original warmth and tenderness "our town," Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize-winning play, opened at 8 p.m. Thursday in Skyline College's Main Theatre.

A modern classic, "our town," has been revivied over the years in road show, and hundreds of stock and amateur productions. Translated into every major language, it has survived the test of time since its opening in New York nearly 40 years ago.

"I feel this show is particularly timely as we Americans contemplate two hundred years of national progress and purpose," Director Richard Rohrbacher, of Skyline's fine arts division, explained.

"Definitely an 'up' play, "Our Town" is both beautiful and touching in its message. The wedding scene alone captures the audience's nostalgic heart. Wilder successfully places value in the simplest events of our every day lives. He turns us on to what it's all about," Rohrbacher explained.

"The cast feels the same way," he added. "Because the play is staged with a minimum of props, the audience is continually challenged to make "Our Town" their town. The cast's enthusiasm for their roles comes across continually. They've risen above the challenge," Rohrbacher concluded.

"Our Town" will play in Skyline's Main Theatre April 1, 2 and 3, and again April 8, 9, and 10. All seats are $1. For further information, call the box office, 355-7000 ext. 231.

Yoga Program is Available in DC

The Daly City Recreation Department invites all interested adults to register in the ten-week spring yoga instruction program. The classes are designed for individuals 18 and older.

All classes will be held at the Westmoor Park Clubhouse, 123 Edgemont Drive, Daly City, according to the following schedule:

ADVANCED BEGINNERS — Jorge Jauregui, instructor, Mondays, 7:30-9 p.m.

March 29 — June 7 (no class May 31)

BEGINNERS — Carlos Nevarez, instructor, Tuesdays, 7:30-9 p.m., March 30-June 1.

The fee for either class is $7.50 for resident and $11.25 for non-resident.

Unless otherwise noted, advanced registration is required, and fees will not be taken at the class. To register, send name, address including city and zip code, daytime phone and correct fee to the Daly City Recreation Department, 134 Hillside Blvd., Daly City 94014. Please note program, session, and class. Make checks payable to: Daly City Recreation Department.

All registration is on a first-come-first-serve basis. Refunds will not be made after the first class of each session. Daly City residents will be given preference should a program have a full enrollment.

For further information, call 992-5356.

Youth Audition

Auditions for prospective soloists for the California Youth Symphony 1976-77 season are open.

Applications from young musicians, 19 years of age or younger, must be filed not later than April 1 for consideration. None received after that date will be eligible.

The performance audition tryouts are scheduled for May 1 in Knuth Hall, Creative Arts Building on the San Francisco State University campus, 1600 Holloway Ave., San Francisco.

A maximum of three youth musicians will be selected by a judges' panel. The winners will be invited to appear in concert with the California Youth Symphony, under the direction of Aaron Sten, at Flint Center at De Anza College in Cupertino and San Mateo High School Auditorium.

The tryouts provide an opportunity to teen musicians for orchestra experience. The candidates are requested to be prepared to play a movement of a standard concerto on a symphonic instrument.

The forthcoming 1976-77 C.Y.S. season marks the 25th anniversary of the parent sponsored orchestra, making it one of the veteran youth symphonies in the United States.

The orchestra has achieved a reputation for excellence in musicianship here and abroad from its international concert tours.

Applications and rules governing the auditions are available by written request to California Youth Symphony Association, Post Office Box 1441, Palo Alto, 94302.

Members of the California Symphony represent communities throughout the Bay Area.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

I recently rediscovered a recipe that makes a delicious and large cake with the minimum amount of effort, and I think you good cooks should discover or rediscover it too.

OATMEAL CAKE

1 cup of quick oats
1¼ cups boiling water
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup white sugar
½ cup shortening
2 eggs
1½ cups flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. soda

Pour the water over the quick oats. Stir and allow to cool.

Cream the sugars with the shortening. Add the eggs and beat well.

Sift together the flour and salt, cinnamon and soda. Add to the creamed mixture, along with the cooled oatmeal. Blend well.

Pour into a 9x13-inch greased and lightly floured baking pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. Until the cake tests done.

In the meantime, prepare the frosting.

BROWN SUGAR FROSTING

1½ cups brown sugar
1 cube margarine
½ cup evaporated milk
½ cup chopped nuts
1 cup coconut

... saucepan, combine the sugar, margarine and milk. Cook together for 2 minutes. Add the chopped nuts and coconut. Spread over hot cake and place under broiler until frosting is slightly brown. Keep an eye on this process, for it browns very fast.

PHOTO EXHIBIT

"Discovery" is the title of this photograph by Daly City resident Jim Schlecker. The photo, and others, are on display starting today at the four branches of the Daly City Library. The exhibit continues through May 15.

The second in the series of group discussions on "Liberty and Justice for All" will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the St. Andrew's Catholic Church, 1571 Southgate Ave., in the St. Francis Heights section of Daly City.

Deacon Thomas Rolle will moderate this focus on the Catholic community's response to the bicentennial.

For additional information, call Sister Irmalyn Benkert, director of Education at St. Andrew's (756-3222).

IF YOU ENJOY collecting patches be sure to bring 50 cents with you when you drop by the Serramonte Shopping Center this weekend to observe the Scout America '76 program being presented by Girl Scouts of the Bay Area.

Cadette Scout Michelle LaPedis of Daly City designed a special patch commemorating the 200th anniversary of the founding of our country. The patch, in a beautiful "Liberty Bell" shape, is done in red, white and blue. Profits from the sale of the patches is earmakred for the "Wider Opportunities" Girl Scouts, who will be traveling, working and learning during the summer.

Alvin Schwarzbach, Scout America '76 chairman, said the event will open with a flag ceremony at the fountain in the shopping center beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday. Booths will be used by the girls on Saturday and Sunday to display handicrafts, scout craft and homemaking skills.

This Saturday afternoon the Daly City Civic Ballet will sponsor a spring fashion show and luncheon in the Franciscan Mobile Country Club in Daly City.

Fashions will be provided by "The Fashion of Westlake."

For additional information about the afternoon program or to reserve tickets, call Mrs. Joseph Abruzzo, 992-7743.

APRIL 7 WILL BE the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's "Race Day."

Members of the guild, their husbands, friends or realtives will be heading toward Golden Gate Fields for the fun of the races and the good feeling that comes when we do something which will help others.

For further information call Mrs. Frank Falconi (755-8358); Mrs. Howard Poblitz (756-6761); or Mrs. Frank Lawson (755-2116).

THE OUR LC⅞⅛,,½auxiliaries LADY OF MERCY Catholic Church will be the site of an Evening of Recollection which will be held on April 12, at 7 p.m.

The Westlake Catholic Women are sponsoring this program and Mrs. James McCann, spiritual director, will handle arrangements. Guest speaker will be Fr. Cornelius Buckely, S.J.

Refreshments will be served by Mrs. James Hughes and the members of her committee will serve refreshments in the Parish Hall.

MRS. ALBERT TEGLIA and Mrs. Alvan Beall were the representatives of the North Peninsula Auxilary of Florence Crittenton Services to a seminar sponsored by auxillaries of the service organization.

Persons attending the seminar, at the First Unitarian Church in San Francisco, heard discussion on how to combine fun with %fund-raising by members of the "Firehouse Five Plus" group and a preview showing of a slide and tape program outlining Crittenton's residential treatment program for single women who are pregnant or who already have children.

Mrs. Teglia is the president of the Peninsula auxiliary. Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Lloyd Taylor, seminar chairman.

ON APRIL 2, members of the San Diego State University choir will present a program celebrating the 200 year history of music in the United States.

The free concert, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of Lakeside Presbyterian Church, Nineteenth Avenue at Eucalyptus Drive, San Francisco.

James Groves, director of music at the church, said the public is invited.

MRS. DENISE SCHWARZBACH, chairman of the Friends of the Library's annual "Book Fair," reports that the children of the Jefferson Elementary School District are taking an active part in this year's fair by creating colorful posters to publicize the need for donations and the dates, time and place of the fair.

Plans for the May 14-15 fair include ideas on wider community involvement and many innovative approaches to presentation.

MRS. ROBERT BRIZUELA, publicity chairman for the Westlake Catholic Women, reports that a replica of the Liberty Bell will be the symbol of the Our Lady of Mercy parish's "Spring Festival."

The bell, heralding the approach of "Star Spangled Days," will be on display in the Parish Hall. The festival is slated for April 29-May 2.

Scout America Opening Slated at Serramonte

Serramonte Shopping Center's Center Stage will be the platform for daily performances as part of Scout America '76, from 10 a.m. April 3 to 5:30 p.m. and from noon to 5 p.m. April 4.

The bicentennial celebration of Girl Scouting will open at 10 a.m. with folk and square dancing performed by Tri-City Junior Troop No. 123 led by Merlanne Doran of Burlingame.

The opening ceremony coordinated by Mrs. Joan Stewart of Daly City is scheduled for 11 a.m. April 3. More than 200 Girl Scouts from nine cities will participate.

At 11:45 a.m. Irish dancing will be presented by South San Francisco's Troop No. 390 led by Mrs. A.B. McGinnis.

SAN FRANCISCO's Junior troop No. 488 and No. 1470 will folk dance at 12:30 p.m. Tri-City's Junior Troop No. 362 will folk dance at 1:15 p.m.

A fashion show of old leader uniforms by South San Francisco's Senior troop No. 2901 is scheduled for 2 p.m., repeated again at 2:45 p.m., and 4:15 p.m. on Saturday and shown only once on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Millie Bessire leads Senior Troop No. 2901.

Bicentennial dancing will be the project of South San Francisco Cadette Troop No. 345 at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The last Saturday center stage performance will be at 5 p.m., with Tri-City's Junior Troop No. 123 repeating their folk and square dancing.

SUNDAY performances start at 12 noon with a military presentation of the San Francisco Presidio's Junior Girl Scout Troop.

Pacifica's Brownie Troop No. 1100 will dance at 12:45 p.m. led by Mrs. Kay Peppers. At 1:30 p.m. South San Francisco's Senior Troop No. 2901 will repeat their fashion show of old leader uniforms.

South San Francisco's Brownie Troop No. 578 will perform at 2:15 p.m. on Sunday; they are led by Mrs. I.C. Lengyel.

South San Francisco's Junior Troop No. 1769 will perform at 3 p.m. and is led by Mrs. D.E. Bingo.

A closing ceremony will be presented by Golden Gate Association's Presidio of San Francisco Cadette Troop No. 1516 at 4:45 p.m.

Stage activities will be coordinated by Carol Miller, Association Bicentennial Liaison from South San Francisco.

Troop participating in Scout America '76, will receive a certificate of participation.

The certificate is available at the Girl Scout information booth opposite Leeds. The booth is also the first aid center and hostessing area for visiting members of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council Board of Directors.

A certificate of attendance will be awarded to troops who attend the event and will also be distributed from the information booth.

Pow-wow in DC Planned

There will be an American Indian Pow-Wow at the Daly City War Memorial Building, 665 Mission St., Daly City, April 4 from 7 to 9 p.m.

There will be plenty of entertainment featuring a one-time showing of Tomo Cultural Dancers. Donations requested: $1, adults; $.50, children. The sponsor is the San Mateo County American Indian Council.

For more information, call the San Mateo County American Indian office at 994-7424.

Friends of Library Meet

The Friends of the South San Francisco Library will meet April 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the Children's Section of the Grand Avenue Library.

Agenda items will include a report from the Project Committee Setting Up Priorities and Costs, Program and Nominating Committees, and the results of the Serramonte Bazaar.

President Nancy Hale plans to ask for suggestions and ideas as to how we may celebrate the historic occasion of the April 25, 1916 opening of the Grand Avenue Library.

5 Circulate Petitions

Five persons are in the process of circulating nomination papers as candidates for election to the Sixth State Senate District seat May 11.

The filing period for the special election to select a successor to George Moscone ends Friday at 5 p.m.

San Mateo County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church reports that nomination papers have been taken out by Jane Powell of Daly City, Democrat; Robert St. Clair of Millbrae, Democrat; William Schumacher of Daly City, Democrat; and by Guy Caputo of Millbrae, American Independent Party.

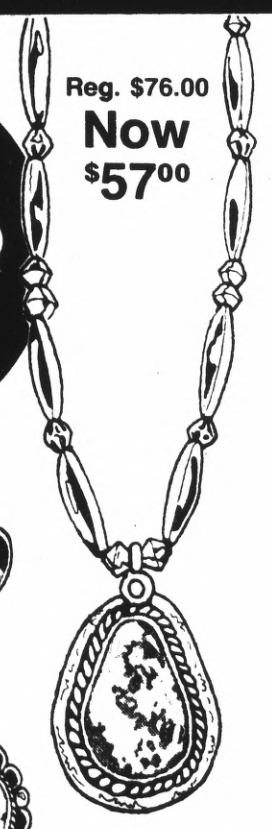

Max Woods of San Francisco, a Republican, has obtained nomination papers in San Francisco.

The Sixth Senate District comprises portions of both San Mateo and San Francisco counties.

Buying of Beaches Urged

The state Coastal Commission, as part of its strategy to preserve the state's scenic shoreline, has revealed its proposal to buy up about 100 miles of beach property for public use. Included are 154 coastal sites worth up to $200 million.

At stake in San Mateo County are lands valued in excess of $5.6 million dollars, some 1,426 acres, which will require an additional $2.9 million.

Affected, should the proposal be accepted by the legislature are:

- Thornton Beach, 36 acres, price of which is undetermined, to be financed by bond issue.
- Sharp Park State Beach, 4.2 acres, valued at $200,000, to be financed through a bond issue and state Department of Parks and Recreation funds.
- Mori's Point, 109.2 acres, valued at $700,000, to be financed by bond issue.
- San Pedro Beach, 50 acres, valued at $1 million, to be acquired with existing Department of Park and Recreation funds.
- Montara Beach, 60 acres, valued at $630,000, to be acquired with existing Department of Park and Recreation funds.
- Fitzgerald Reserve, 195 acres, value undetermined, county funded.
- Miramar and Manhattan Beaches, 39.8 acres, valued at $450,000, to be financed by bond issue.
- Pescadero Marsh, 290 acres, valued at $442,500, to be acquired by existing Department of Parks and Recreation funds.
- Bolsa Point Beaches, 25 acres, valued at $25,000, to be acquired as a joint state and county project.
- County beaches within the city limits of Half Moon Bay, 80 acres, valued at $700,000, already funded by the county.
- Franklin Point Beach, 437 acres, valued at $875,000, to be raised by bond issue.
- County beaches south of Half Moon Bay, 100 acres, valued at $650,000, to be raised by bond issue.

STATE'S PROPOSAL

The state Coastal Commission has proposed acquiring these lands on the county's seacoast for public use. 1,426 acres worth $5.6 million are at stake in San Mateo County.

Creek Work Closes Lanes

Two of the four lanes crossing Colma Creek on Chestnut Avenue in South San Francisco will be closed for six months.

The detour will allow for one phase of the $9 million Colma Creek Flood Control construction plan.

The entire Chestnut Avenue flood improvements will be completed in September at a cost of $1,022,000 to the county.

City Engineer Bob Yee said the two southbound lanes from Antoinette Lane to Commercial Avenue over the bridge will be closed beginning Monday.

In May or June, the lanes will be re-opened and the northbound lanes will be closed until the construction is completed in September.

Rather than remove the entire bridge, Yee said, the county decided to construct half at a time, leaving the remaining half open for traffic.

The City Council on March 17 also agreed to participate with the county in Chestnut Avenue widening and installation of traffic signals. This project will be completed during the flood control construction period, Yee explained.

Since these items are preliminary steps in the city's planned realignment of Mission Road and are not for flood-control purposes, the city must pay half of the $130,000 cost through city gas tax revenue. County highway funds will be used for the remainder.

The entire Colma Creek Flood Control Project is scheduled for completion in June 1981.

SSF Bookstore Action Put Off

The attorney for adult bookstore applicant Earl Kuhns said he will not seek legal action forcing the South San Francisco City Council to consider the application sooner than July 21.

Attorney Peter Keene said recently that he might seek a writ of mandate in the courts forcing the council to consider Kuhn's appeal of the Planning Commission denial on Feb. 10.

The City Council scheduled a July 21 hearing because of an emergency ordinance adopted March 3 prohibiting adult bookstores and 25 other kinds of businesses in the downtown area before June 30. The Planning Department is completing an urban core study which may result in a permanent ban on adult bookstores and other controversial businesses.

KQED Goes Out into Community

Public television station KQED is going out into the community to listen to the comments of its viewers and to talk a bit about the station starting next month.

First of a long-planned series of community meetings will be held April 6 at 8 p.m. at Dominican College, San Rafael in Angelico Hall.

"Everyone is welcome," said KQED President William Osterhaus, "members and non-members alike. These are public meetings for all the viewers we serve." He stressed that other meetings will be held in other Bay Area locations to make it possible for all those interested to attend.

Joining Osterhaus and KQED Board Chairman Howard Nemerovski at the gathering will be other members of KQED's staff and board and three of the station's on-air personalities — Rollin Post and Linda Schacht from "Newsroom" and Gerri Lange from "Womantime." "We plan to talk a little and listen a lot," said Nemerovski.

Empty Rooms Bill Advances

What's billed as a major educational bill aimed at easing the burdensome financial problems facing California schools passed the Assembly Education Committee Thursday by a 9 to 2 vote.

AB 2882, authored by Assemblymen Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, and Gary Hart, D-Santa Barbara, would allow schools with vacant classrooms to rent or lease space in order to make up for the monetary loss caused by the reduction in the number of school-age children.

According to Arnett, the bill was suggested by Supt. Claude Turner of the Belmont Elementary School District.

"Unless some positive steps are taken to counter declining enrollment, numerous educational facilities will be forced to close their doors and neighborhood schools will become a thing of the past," Arnett said.

Under the bill, empty classrooms could be rented or leased to other school districts, educational or governmental or community agencies, professional groups, commercial and noncommercial firms, corporations, partnerships, businesses and individuals.

The bill also calls for creation of district advisory committees to help make judgments about the use of excessive school facilities in the instances empty space is to be rented or leased.

The bill next moves to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Ryan Bill To Curb Concorde

Rep. Leo J. Ryan, D.—San Mateo, is co-sponsoring legislation which would prohibit the supersonic Anglo-French Concorde jet from using U.S. airports.

The bill, introduced by Rep. James V. Stanton, D.—Ohio, would prohibit the planes until they comply with federal noise standards applicable to all U.S. aircraft.

"It seems to me that until SST aviation engineers can meet reasonable standards set up by our own FAA, the Concorde should not be allowed to shatter the daily lives of the people who live within the immensely larger noise boundaries of airports within this country," Ryan said.

"The decision to allow the SST to land at Dulles Airport places the SST one step closer to landings at San Francisco International Airport," Ryan added. "Those landings cannot be allowed to take place."

Car Rolls 3 Times In Crash

Two occupants of a car which caught its wheels in a foot-deep rut along Cabrillo Highway Tuesday escaped serious injury even though the auto flipped over three times as it careened down a 20-foot embankment, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Mary Margaret Thomas, 29, of 422 Balboa Ave., El Granada, reported to Highway Patrolman Miles Godfrey that she was northbound on the Coast highway when she heard a car behind her and her passenger, Alta Wilson, 63, of LaHonda Road, screamed, "Watch out." She said she swerved to the right and lost control of her auto.

Two Fined in Burlingame Burglary

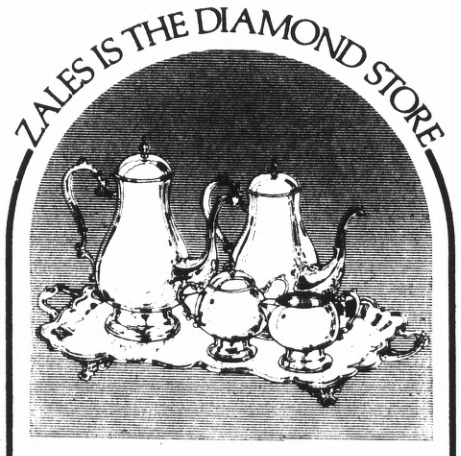

Two San Mateo teenagers have been fined $360 and sentenced to county jail for four months for the Nov. 21 burglary of the Medical Center Pharmacy in Burlingame.

Sentence was imposed on Jeffrey Fazio and Gary Lambert, both 19, by San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo. Both defendants had pleaded guilty to second-degree burglary, according to prosecutor Jeff Boyarsky.

Judge Piombo also put both defendants on three years probation, and instructed Lambert to enter a drug program.

Fazio and Lambert were arrested after Officer Gary Fleming spotted the back of the center's door ajar, authorities said.

'Inner Visions' Helps Many See Clear Through Radio

By LIN DAY

"We have to break the apathy, even my own," says Dr. Hal Varner, psychology instructor at Canada College whose two-hour Sunday KDIA radio show recently marked its first anniversary with a 50 per cent gain in listeners.

Dr. Varner, an ordained minister as well as psychologist, has created an innovative telephone-talk show that looks to the future while discussing the problems of the day.

It also develops a host of people-to-people relationships and philosophical ideas, according to those who listen.

"Before you can look into the future world," Varner says, "you have to break the apathy. The future is belief; the present world is real."

He says the rote system generally accepted in many fields today puts people on a treadmill "moving so fast we are moving beyond ourselves as people."

"The world would progress more," he says, "if we could stop people from being a threat to others."

Varner says, too, that work is creative and that there are "all sorts of inventions yet to be made." One of his objectives is to "shoot down negativism...people act as though culture is bad," he says.

"People are responding to culture based on what leaders tell them," he continues. "Meanwhile, the rote system is creating a monopolistic culture of its own."

The radio program by which Varner attempts mass motivation to break the apathy with which he is concerned was his wife, Mildred's idea. It is called Inner-Visions and has gained on its own, with no promotion.

"When I was in school," Varner notes, "I dreamed of some way of using the media to counsel psychologically."

His program is divided into different areas, and he tries to get as many of these into each Sunday as he can. It results in a diverse offering, with issues, concepts, entertainers, interviews and all sorts of approaches.

"We've had entertainers talk about promotion, advertising, why people respond," he says. "We have a 'can't read' segment. There's political material. Then there's medicine and alternatives such as acupuncture and meditation.

"There's future shock, housing, life style, divorces. We spent a couple of hours on Senate Bill 1. We have talked about cooperation on milk prices, had a lot of entertainers and politicians, and talks on art communication.

"We give out information on both sides, and let people respond."

Dr. Varner says that now the college has become interested and may this fall offer three units of credit, whereby Students would prepare articles each week, then hear Varner on the air, then turn in a filled-in questionnaire on the subject, and finally join in a workshop. The workshop would seek solutions.

"It's all an attack on apathy," he explains. "A 'slow-down world.' We are hanging on, just surviving. If we can hang on long enough, we can slow down and live. We can say, 'I love you.' We can watch a child read a book. We can pick up a paper and react. Teachers can give a child skills, not just information.

"Unless we get off this treadmill, I am concerned about my country."

Dr. Varner is ordained in the Lutheran ministry and held his most recent pastorate in Palo Alto.

He was with the KGO show, "Clergy on the Line" for five years.

He served for some time as religious editor for a Peninsula newspaper and has been active in civic affairs with many projects.

A witness to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Dr. Varner was at one time with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and also was active with the Black Business Coalition.

Winner of a humanities fellowship scholastic achievement award, he is the author of a text on psychology and has been published both in this country and in England.

'HAVE TO BREAK THE APATHY'

Current Issues Affecting Future Of Higher Education to Be Aired

Current issues affecting the future of higher education in California will be discussed in a Skyline College Community Services program "Lifelong Learning — Who Shall Pay the Bill," April 7 at 7 p.m. in Room 2306, Building 2 at the campus.

Dr. Donald Garrity, provost and vice-president of academic affairs at San Francisco State University, will discuss a wide range of problems facing the California State University system, and Dr. John Petersen, president of Skyline College, will talk about the future of the community colleges.

Among the topics to be covered are: the possibility of higher tuition fees in public schools, problems of adequate funding, recent state legislation affecting higher education, implications of collective bargaining for educational institutions, and the role of the college and university in providing new kinds of programs for a changing student body.

Although the event is open to the public, tickets must be requested as seating is limited.

Registration forms can be found on Community Service brochures which are available from libraries in north San Mateo County. Interested persons may also register at the Main Theater Box Office on campus between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays. For additional information call 355-7000, extension 231.

A one-hour presentation entitled "Understanding Cystic Fibrosis" will be offered by the Community Services Office at Skyline, April 6, at 11 a.m. in the Main Theater.

Representatives from Cystic Fibrosis Research, Inc., a non-profit, voluntary health agency, will show a film, discuss current genetic research, genetic counseling and cystic fibrosis, and answer questions.

Although cystic fibrosis, a fatal, inherited disease, is incurable, recent genetic research has already lengthened the lives of many of its victims from an average of two to twelve years.

A young man who has cystic fibrosis recently said, "I wasn't supposed to grow up." Physicians are hearing this kind of statement with increased frequency as the cystic fibrosis babies of the 1950s are reaching adulthood through better methods of diagnosis and treatment.

There is no charge for attending this event. Course reservation forms are available on Community Service brochures which can be found in libraries in North San Mateo County. Interested persons may also register at the Main Theater Box Office on campus between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays. For additional information call 355-7000, Extension 231.

Prosecution For Meat Short-Weights

Undercover purchases of meat at butcher departments throughout the County have led to prosecution by the district attorney's office of short-weighting practices.

First judgment by Superior Court Judge Robert Carey was against the Save-More Meat market in Pacifica where investigators from the county's weight and measures department discovered 24 instances of short-weighting of different cuts of meat.

Save-More partners George E. Lee Jr. and Francis P. Quan have been ordered to pay a $2,500 penalty for the practice and to reimburse the Weights & Measures department for its costs, Deputy Dist. Atty. David Reed said.

Reed, in charge of the D.A.'s consumer fraud division, said one additional complaint against another market has been filed and 15 to 20 others are pending.

Reed said all of the cases have developed from a test program initiated by county weights and measures under County Sealer Gene Smith.

Bruno Man Earns Ed.D.

Craig A. Arnold, 257 Acacia Ave., San Bruno, former San Bruno Park School District educator, has just received his Ed.D. degree at the University of Northern Colorado.

A native of San Mateo, Arnold graduated from Seattle University and received his master's degree at San Francisco State University. After leaving the San Bruno district in 1973, he was a work-study instructor for the Palo Alto Unified School District then became consultant for special education student teaching at UNC.

Needs Meet

The development of special needs recreation programs in San Mateo County will be discussed March 24 at 1280 Commodore Drive in San Bruno beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Slaying Suspect To Court

Gerald M. Richardson, 26, of San Francisco, accused of killing another man outside a Burlingame tavern one month ago, has been bound over to San Mateo County Superior Court.

Richardson was ordered held to answer on a murder charge by Judge Phrasel L. Shelton Wednesday after a three-day hearing on the incident ended in Central District Municipal Court. Judge Shelton ordered Richardson to appear in Superior Court April 6.

Richardson and two other men were arrested Feb. 8 by Burlingame police after Floyd Atkinson, 22, of Palo Alto, was found dead following a disturbance in an alley behind the tavern on California Drive.

The other two suspects, Michael R. Gettle, 25, and Terry L. Greenfield, 29, both of San Bruno, are charged with assault and were also ordered to appear in Superior Court April 6.

Change Of Name Adopted

A change in the name of the San Mateo County Manpower Planning Council and a revision in the composition of its membership were approved this week by the County Board of Supervisors.

The name of the organization is being changed to Comprehensive Employment and Training Advisory Council to parallel recently changed federal and state names.

The board approved a revision in the composition of the 15-member council which will increase the number of business representatives from one to two and reduce the number of community representatives by one, selecting the latter five members from community service organizations rather than from the community at large.

Also, in accordance with recommendations by County Manager M. D. Tarshes and County Manpower Director E. Frances David, the board reduced the terms of membership on the council from four years to two.

Tarshes said the intent behind the changes, which are supported by the council, is to "add more vitality to the membership with shorter terms, place the advisory responsibility more clearly in focus and help the council to establish its independent thinking without relaying as heavily as it has in the past on direction from its liaison member from the Board of Supervisors."

Candidates Night Due

Citizens for Land Use Education, a group of property owners formerly known as "People Against the Golden Gate National Recreation Area," will sponsor a Candidates Night, 8 p.m., Wednesday, March 31, at LaHonda School.

Candidates to succeed Mrs. Jean Fassler as a representative of the Fifth Supervisorial District have been invited.

Rain Spoiled Super Meet

Le Pacini

That speculative Giant "trade" for Tom Seaver that never came off, and which, we suspect, never had a chance of coming off, nonetheless raised some interesting speculation and brought forth a variety of baseball philosophy.

First of all, what did the Mets want for Seaver in terms of bodies? (We'll leave out the salary aspect of a trade for Seaver, since in sports, bodies are more important than money.)

We don't know, but we can guess, and we guess it's more than the Giants have, or would want to afford. We would say that the Mets started with John Montefusco, who is not only a potential replacement for Seaver by way of wins, but who would probably be more valuable than Seaver as a gate attraction if he could average even 15 wins a year. He is a native New Yorker whose personality Mets fans would undoubtedly devour.

Because the Mets have no shortstop unless Bud Harrelson, past 30 and riddled with injuries for the past four years, makes a miracle comeback, they probably would have asked for Chris Speier. They also need a third baseman, but we doubt they would have had the gall to ask for newly acquired Ken Reitz. And besides, if Harrelson did make the comeback, they could always have shifted Speier to third, even if over his dead body.

So they might have asked for one of the Giants' young relief pitchers, such as Gary Lavelle (to take the place of long-missed Tug McGraw), and asked to have a catcher thrown in. They might even have made a pitch for Bobby Murcer to return to the Big Apple, to replace the traded lefty slugging outfielder Rusty Staub.

In short, the Mets would have probably wanted a good part of the heart of the Giants in return for a genuine super-star, a guy who already has one foot in the Hall of Fame, and who may still be at or near his peak.

A LOCAL COACH we know seemed to sum up the philosophy of many people when he said that if the Giants could afford Seaver's salary, they should have given anything the Mets wanted in the way of personnel.

"Hell yes," he said. "Give them Montefusco. He's a pop-off kid. He may never win 20. Give them a relief pitcher. Give them Speier. He's good, but he's not great.

"Even give them Murcer if they want him. How often does a team have a chance to pick up a player like a Koufax or a Feller or a Dimaggio or Musial or Williams? A player of Seaver's caliber has unlimited value. Why, just on the practical side, you know that you're almost certain to win every fourth game."

We can't say that we even come close to agreeing. As for that practical side, we don't think you trade away several daily players for one who plays only every fourth day. Seaver may win one game out of four, but players like Speier and Murcer can win two of those four games.

On the "impractical" money side, a colorful player like Montefusco can draw people even when he doesn't always win. Seaver is efficient, but he isn't colorful. He has to win almost every time to draw people. And at this stage, drawing people is what the Giants need more than wins.

And getting back to practicality, Montefusco is younger than Seaver, hasn't pitched all those 300-inning seasons, and once a pitcher hits that age 30 mark, as Seaver has done, he's pitching on borrowed time, no matter what his credentials were in his 20's.

Now, we're not saying that NO team should trade for Seaver, only that the Giants shouldn't have ever even entertained the thought, except as a whimsical subject over brandy. They are a young team and cannot afford to trade away their future for one player who may or may not bring them one pennant.

After all, if players like Speier and Murcer were removed from the Giant lineup, who would hit and catch the ball for Seaver? For an emerging team like the Giants, one player — particularly one who plays only once or twice a week — will rarely make the difference between a third-place finish and a pennant.

One player like Seaver could make a difference for an established team like Oakland, who can win divisions but need that extra pitcher for playoffs and World Series'.

(But again the question comes up, who would hit and catch the ball for Seaver if the already delapidated A's farm system couldn't replace the Jackson's or Rudi's or Bando's or Campanaris' that the Mets would surely demand in return.)

Or for a team like Baltimore, which is already so close to a pennant. But again, we go back to whether or not such teams could replace what they had to give up for Seaver.

Only the great old Yankee teams of the '50's, it seems to us, could have really handled a Seaver-like deal. They could make it monetarily and could afford the bodies, because they always had such great hidden surpluses in the minors.

What we are saying, in short, is that a Seaver-type trade just may not be possible in this era of expansion and depleted minor league resources.

SUDDEN THOUGHT — It seems to us that Marvin Miller's stance against the baseball establishment is helping only the super stars, and doing very little practical good for the ordinary players.

CHRIS ARNOLD'S absence from spring training with the Giants this year will certainly make the camp just a little less lively. He seldom got publicity on the subject, but Arnold is a genuine character, a really funny guy whose goofy antics always kept everybody loose.

One of our favorite Arnold stories concerns the Squirrel God episode in Amarillo.

Seems Arnold was out small game hunting with teammates one day when he shot a cute little squirrel.

He was immediately berated for it. "You bully," his buddies shouted at him. "How could you have drilled such a cute little creature?" "Did you see the way he was looking so trustfully at you with those big, brown eyes just before you assassinated him?" "He wasn't even armed."

Arnold, a basically sensitive soul, said he was sorry. "Won't do any good now," one of his inspired teammates told him. "Now you've offended the Great Squirrel God. Your career may be over."

Arnold returned to the park that night and started an 0-for-30 slump. "It's that damned Squirrel God," he explained to manager Andy Gilbert when he was threatened with being benched. "One more game," he was told, "and then you become one with the splinters."

The next game was a day game, and early arriving teammates hit the field to see Arnold, on his knees and in uniform, huddled over something in center field.

When they arrived on the site, they saw that Arnold had erected a small shrine built around a ceramic squirrel, and he was chanting, "Oh, Great Squirrel God, please forgive me. I am repentant, and in a slump. And if you promise to break me out of it, I will never again harm but will in fact forever venerate your furry little subjects. . . ." over and over again.

That day Arnold, hitting nothing but ropes, went 3-for-3. And, presumably, still pays homage to the Squirrel God.

"SPORTING NEWS" writer Woodrow Paige has compiled an All-ABA Alumni team consisting of players now in the NBA. Quite formidable, it is as follows: Rick Barry, George McGinnis, Spencer Haywood, Charley Scott and Don Freeman. Sixth man would be Bruce Seals.

IT'S A PITY that rain forced cancellation of several events last week when teams from the College of San Mateo and Skyline got together on the same track.

Once upon a time, when Skyline was in its infancy, CSM had some prestige to lose by running against the Trojans. Now, CSM has nothing to lose.

The Bulldogs have had hard times of late in the star-studded Golden Gate Conference, while Skyline has had its own way in the less competitive Coast Conference. Skyline, with several groups of fine athletes, has piled success upon success with dulling regularity, and has quite rightly earned a solid reputation. But, while CSM may not fare well in GGC dual meets, it is certainly strong enough to give the Trojans a run for their money.

An unofficial score of the events run last week had CSM ahead 46-45. Not contested were the high and intermediate hurdles races (in which CSM had an edge on paper), the pole vault (which CSM figured to win), the shot put and discus (where Skyline shines) and the triple jump (where Skyline figured to score some points).

But all in all, on a dry day, the two teams probably could have had some kind of meet.

What's Going On Here?

ONE OF THE MOST underrated track athletes in the County last year, San Mateo High's Bob Mardis, has gone on to carve out a solid position for himself on UCLA's powerhouse track team. The freshman has already run the intermediates (he's UCLA's No. 2 man) in 53.7 this season.

BASEBALL COACHES, please note: if you've been having your pitchers take advantage of the current rulebook on their pickoff moves, you may be in for an unpleasant surprise before long.

The rules apparently allow a right-handed pitcher to lift his left knee, then step directly back toward first, whirl, and fire. That kind of move is almost impossible to run against. And, according to Peninsula Umpires' Association President Jerry Littrell, that kind of move is illegal, no matter what your rulebook says.

Littrell made a long-distance call to one of the toprules arbiters, who told Littrell that the move described is a balk, and that umpires around the country have been directed to call it as such.

The move certainly will not be allowed in postseason competition.

SPEAKING OF postseason competition, all-star baseball teams from the Mid-Peninsula League and North Peninsula League are scheduled to meet at Candlestick Park after the Central Coast Section playoffs have been concluded.

I would have loved to have seen a similar competition in basketball.

CRESTMOOR HIGH swimmer Rick Rolfes was given credit for setting a sprint record in San Mateo High's pool in this year's Mid-Peninsula League Relays, but the record apparently still belongs to former Hillsdale star Hans Van Arkel (who swam 15.1 in 1974 to lop eight tenths of a second off the previous record).

Hans is now competing for Arizona in the Western Athletic Conference. In the WAC finals earlier this month, he took third in the 50 freestyle (21.3 seconds) and fifth in the 100 free (47.2). Arizona won both the 400 medley and 800 free relays, with Hans swimming anchor and coming from behind in both. Arizona set a record (3:28.80) in the medley.

And, his coach adds, Hans is a 4.0 student.

NPL Baseball

Cougars Edge Rams

Lance Rupert drew a walk with the bases loaded in the top of the seventh inning Monday, forcing in the winning run as Half Moon Bay High edged host Westmoor 3-2 in a North Peninsula League baseball contest.

All four runners for the Cougars reached base via walks in the seventh.

Rupert was also instrumental in HMB's game-tying sixth inning rally. Rupert led off the sixth with a base hit and then scored two batters later on Gary Francis' triple.

Diego Salangsang provided Westmoor with its only runs in the fourth with a two-out, two-run single. Jerry McNeil led the Rams at the plate with two hits.

Nate Burr picked up the win for the Cougars, allowing only four hits.

Warriors Rally to Tie Terra Nova 4-4

South San Francisco High battled back from a three-run sixth inning deficit to tie visiting Terra Nova 4-4 in 11 innings in a North Peninsula League baseball contest Friday.

Elsewhere in the NPL, Half Moon Bay defeated Jefferson 5-3 and El Camino topped Westmoor 10-3.

SSF's game-tying rally began with bases-on-balls to Matt Allio and Mike Abelar to lead off the sixth. Jim Selvitella's infield out following a wild pitch scored one run and then Tiger Delacruz's double plated the other.

Sean Burns tied the game with a solid single to left scoring Delacruz and advanced to second on the throw home. After moving to third on a mis-directed Tiger pickoff play, Burns attempted to score on a wild pitch.

However, the ball rebounded off the backstop, bouncing directly to TN pitcher Gordon Shirley, who threw to Mark Johnson at the plate cutting off the potential winning run.

Selvitella pitched himself out of a bases-loaded situation in the ninth with a strikeout and an infield out.

Shirley, who struck out 11, received excellent defensive support, particularly from shortstop Ed Pulanco and right fielder Dave Matas.

Jud Fisher had two hits and a pair of runs-batted-in for Terra Nova.

Once again senior right-hander Bob Humphrey pitched and hit El Camino to victory. Humphrey (3-0) held Westmoor scoreless for four innings and finished with another complete game. He also ripped a three-run homer in the Colts' seven-run third inning, and had four RBIs.

John Canepa had two hits and two RBIs, including a homer, and John Donalaya added two hits for El Camino. Jerry McNeil paced the Rams with a pair of hits.

Lance Rupert's two-run fifth inning single highlighted Half Moon Bay's victory. Rupert's game-winning hit came with runners on second and third and the Cougars trailing 3-2. Doug Bray picked up the win for HMB allowing only three hits.

CSM Golfers Beat CCSF

College of San Mateo's golf team defeated City College of San Francisco 47-7 in a makeup Golden Gate Conference match at San Mateo muni links Monday. San Mateo's Fred Akchurin took medal honors with a one-under-par 69.

Armbrewster(SM) d. McGilley(SF),6-0; Gill(SF) d. Giftin(SM),4-2, best ball: San Mateo 3, CCSF 3; Akchurin(SM) d. Bagatelos (SF),6-0; Murray (SM) d. Evans(SF),6-0, best ball: San Mateo 6, CCSF 0; Oas(SM) d. Cummings(SF),6-0; Schlosser(SM) d. Stroh(SF),6-0; best ball: San Mateo 6, CCSF 0.

Knights Beat 'Cat Netters

Hillsdale High's tennis team ended the first round tied for second place in the Mid-Peninsula League after beating cross-town rival San Mateo 4-3 Monday in a makeup match.

The Knights are 4-2 and tied with Capuchino. Aragon and Burlingame are the MPL co-leaders at 5-1.

Bill Smith keyed the Knight win with a 6-3, 7-6 win in first singles over Clay Daniells. Jeff Johnson stood out for SM with a 6-2, 6-2 win in second singles.

SSF Wins Volleyball

South San Francisco High's unbeaten volleyball team wrapped up the North Peninsula League round robin title Friday with a 15-2, 15-5 win over Jefferson.

The Warrior JVs also finished a 7-0 NPL season by beating Jeff 15-11, 13-15, 15-11.

Following are the results of recent games in the C.Y.S.A. Soccer League in Daly City:

Under 10's Coaches Cup: Westlake Spartans 6, Olympic Club 0.

With this win, the Spartans became the holders of the Coaches' Cup Consolation Trophy. They showed great form, and are ready to outdo the exploits of their sister team, the Westlake Cheetahs.

Westlake Cheetahs 5, West Sunset Rovers 4.

This Coaches' Cup Final looked like a script from World Cup games. Two evenly matched teams engaged in a seesaw battle that saw the lead change after every goal. At the end of regulation, it was a 3 to 3 tie.

In the 10-minute overtime, Westlake went ahead by 4 to 3, West Sunset replied to make it 4 to 4, then Tony Di Maggio's score in the final two minutes proved the winner for the Cheetahs. Scoring for the Cheetahs came also from Greg Bachli, Nick Rally, Kevin McNulty and a header over the goalie by Juan Cordon on one of Danny Brown's great centers from right wing.

Especially outstanding in this thriller were Greg Bachli, left wing; Kevin McNulty, inside right; Kenny Lambro, left halfback for the Cheetahs while Tim Healy for West Sunset scored all his team's goals, and was a threat whenever he moved the ball, dazzling the Cheetah defense for the first time during their season. The Cheetahs' final league record is seven wins, one tie and achieving the double, winning both the regular league and the Coaches Cup.

Under 8's: Westlake Minutemen 0, South San Francisco 4

South San Francisco scored all its goals in the first half as the Westlake defense was outrun. In the second half, Westlake attacked continuously but couldn't penetrate the South San Francisco defense. Extra fine performances for the Minutemen came from Danny Caracciolo, Phil Daw, Steve Beerman, and Tyler Lessa in the second half.

Grandma Net Qualifying

Qualifying round for the 14th annual Doggie Diner Grandmothers' Tennis Tournament is scheduled for Wednesday at the Golden Gate Park Tennis Courts at 10 a.m. Sixteen grandmothers will compete for the remaining four spots in the 48-woman field.

More than 200 applications for entry were filed this year, according to Maury Wolohan, tournament director. The tournament is scheduled April 7, at the Golden Gate Park Tennis Courts.

Terra Nova Mermen Win

Terra Nova High's swim team won a triangular meet Monday against visiting Oceana and Lowell.

The Tigers had 90 points to 78 for Oceana and 65 for Lowell. Jay Bontrager and Peter Kern paced the TN attack with individual wins

SH Beats Pad Nine

Serra High's baseball team dropped a 7-2 West Catholic Athletic League decision Friday to host Sacred Heart of San Francisco.

The Padres are now 2-2 in the WCAL.

The victory also gave Sacred Heard the title in the month-long San Carlos Booster Club tournament, in which SH and Serra had tied with 3-0-1 records.

Serra	100	010	0	—	2	4 1
Sacred Heart	210	040	x	—	7	4 4

Serra — Duchi (L), Nichols (6) and Allen. SH — Soltau and Chavarria. 3B — Stuhler (SH). 2B — Chavarria (SH).

Other WCAL scores: Riordan 10, Bellarmine 7; Mitty 3, St. Ignatius 1.

TN, Ram Swimmers Win

Terra Nova and Westmoor high schools remained undefeated in North Peninsula League swimming with wins Friday.

TN stopped visiting Jefferson 111-25 and Westmoor got by El Camino 97-57. In the other meet, South City beat Oceana.

Jay Bontrager and Peter Kern were double winners for the Tigers in their win and wins by Terry Kraemar and defending NPL diving champ Pat McMillan paced the Rams to victory.

Tailwinds Offering Prime Rib Feast

The Tailwinds' dinner special of Monday last was a fabulous success. The featured attraction was a prime rib dinner for two ($8.95), which included visits to the deluxe salad bar. Manager Robert Kania, who created the new lunch and dinner formats, says the "Prime rib special for two" will be a Monday evening attraction for an indefinite time . . . The newly-opened Ali Baba Room at the Costa Brava restaurant, in San Francisco, is a place to take that special someone for a cordial drink and an unusual meal in a quiet atmosphere . . . Phil Lehr's elegant, new Steakery in the bottom of the San Francisco Hilton Tower gets a big national publicity break when O'Keefe & Merritt runs full-page color ads in the May issues of Sunset Magazine, Better Homes & Gardens and Southern Living. The ads feature Phil extolling the virtues of cooking one of his gourmet specialties, Duck a l'Orange, in an O'Keefe & Merritt Microwave Oven . . . Today is the last time you will see Tanforan Park's 50 cents off "dinner coupon" until next Fall. Worth 50 cents off on any food purchase (after 4 p.m.) at restaurants located within the Garden Restaurant complex, this coupon is always a money-saving bargain during the winter months. April 14 is the last date the coupon is valid.

LOCAL FAVORITE

The Tri-Sounds, a versatile group with a danceable sound and strong vocals, is appearing at the Bayhill Lounge, in San Bruno five nights a week, Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Headliners Visit Lehr's Greenhouse

Martin Mull, the hilarious singer-comedian, stopped by Lehr's Greenhouse Garden restaurant in San Francisco for dinner before performing at the Boarding House and had the staff in stitches with his rib-cracking quips. "Inflation," said Mull, "is when a gang holds up a Brinks truck, and all they take is the tires" . . . Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant will be closed through Friday of this week in memory of its founder, Vince Licata, who was recognized as one of the Bay Area's finest restaurateurs. . . . weekend dine-out tip: Prime Rib dinner at Scotty Campbell's, in Redwood City. One visit will make you a steady customer. . . . You can expect a lengthy stint on the Peninsula for Kathy Holly, the great-looking guitarist now entertaining in the Back Door Lounge of the Royal Inn, South San Francisco. . . . Eat in or take out pizza, plus full course Italian dinners is Enrico Romano's entry in the dine-out scene at Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. It's a sure winner against any odds.

No Labor Problems In Reno-Tahoe Areas

With the Las Vegas, Nevada scene experiencing labor problems, you can be sure the Reno-Tahoe areas are enjoying a booming business in all fields. Barney's and the South Tahoe Nugget report record-breaking days and nights in their restaurants and gaming areas. These Stateline clubs, although not the largest in South Lake Tahoe, have a bonus coupon program that's unbeatable. . . . Coquille a la Coyote Point is something to try at The Castaway, at Coyote Point. It's small Cape Cod scallops sauteed in a white wine sauce with mushrooms, and served in a shell. The complete dinner, including soup or house salad, is $5.75. . . . For those who enjoy veal, Veal Scallopini Marsala (choice pieces of veal sauteed with fresh mushrooms and garden herbs blended together) is a work of art at Nick's in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. And you're not going to beat that nautical view while dining, no matter where you go.

Coyote Point Auxiliary Sponsors Decorating Exhibit

"Hazelwood Hills," the former Folger estate in Woodside, is the site of the 1976 Decorators' Show House sponsored by the Coyote Point Museum Auxiliary of San Mateo County.

The 19th annual Show House opens April 24 and runs through May 16, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily, with special evening openings April 27, May 5, and May 12 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Tickets, at $4 each, may be purchased at the door or from Auxiliary members. Children under eight will not be admitted. Shuttle service will transport visitors to the Show House from the parking facilities at Searsville Lake, reached by going west from Highway 280 on Sand Hill Road, Portola Valley.

In addition to viewing rooms decorated by select designers from Northern California, guests may purchase boxed lunches in the Tea Room each weekday, enjoy wine tasting on weekends from 2 to 4 p.m. and shop in the Market Place which will offer greenery items, art treasures, and boutique selections.

This year the Decorators' Show House will have two special attractions not offered previously: a bicentennial quilt and an hors d'oeuvre cookbook both done by auxiliary members.

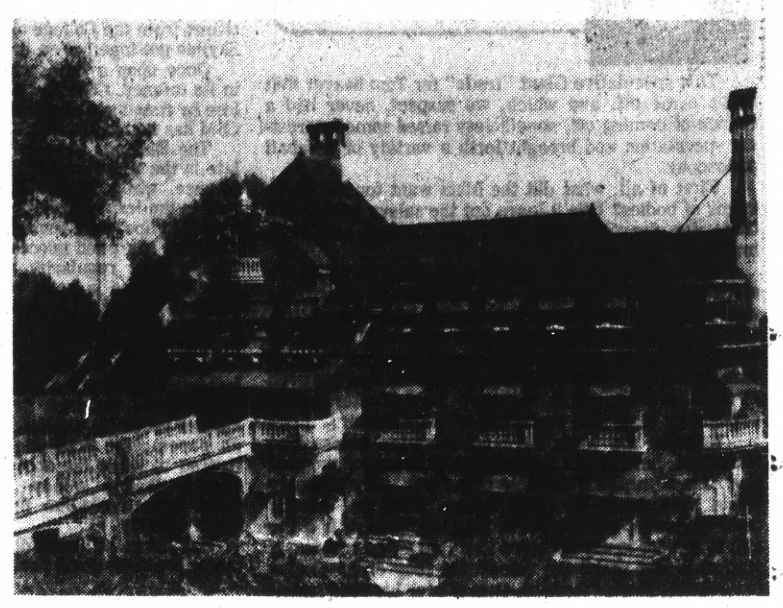

The Coyote Point Museum Auxiliary's Decorators' Show House, a nationally known and widely imitated event, draws visitors from all over California during its three-week opening. This year's location makes the fifth home designed by San Francisco architect Arthur Brown, Jr. Others included "Villa Roma" (1964); "Maison de Ville" (1967); "Danvers House" (1968); and "Sky Farm" (1970).

Brown designed "Hazelwood Hills" in 1905 for James A. Folger II, son of the founder of the Folger Coffee Company of San Francisco, when Folger bought the 1600-acre property which was originally part of the early Canada Spanish land grant belonging to Simon L. Jones, a coffee importer of the late 1880's.

The house itself represents the Edwardian style of architecture — a mixture of the ornate and the simple with particular attention given to detailing.

The four-story wood and stucco house, with its 22 rooms and eight baths, is situated on its present 15 acres of property in such a way that one can enjoy a pastoral view from all sides. Despite its size, the secluded estate gives a warm, gracious welcome to visitors as they enter. Manicured, terraced gardens with a grape arbor, tennis court, and pool area invite visitors to stroll leisurely through the grounds.

The Coyote Point Museum Auxiliary's annual project, averaging attendance of 20,000 a year, raises funds which go toward the building of a new environmental science museum which will replace the present facilities at Coyote Point in San Mateo. The New Museum has been named a bicentennial project in the Horizons category by both the City and County of San Mateo.

DECORATING SHOW

The former Folger estate in Woodside will be the site of the 1976 Decorator's Show of the Coyote Point Museum of San Mateo County. The house is an example of the Edwardian style of architecture.

9 Candidates for State Senate Post

A total of nine candidates will battle it out May 11 in a special election to fill the vacated Sixth District State Senate seat of George Moscone, now mayor of San Francisco.

When the filing period closed at 5 p.m. Friday, four Democratic, three Republican, one American Independent and one nonpartisan candidates had returned their nomination papers.

The winner of the special election will fill out the remainder of Moscone's unexpired term, which extends through 1978.

Moscone was elected to a four-year term in 1974 after the new Sixth District was created through reapportionment to include about equal portions of San Mateo and San Francisco counties.

Five of the candidates are San Mateo County residents, and four reside in San Francisco.

The San Mateo County candidates who filed papers with County Clerk-Recorder Marvin Church:

Guy Caputo (AI), of Millbrae, an airline food and beverage provider.

Jane Powell (D), of Daly City, a trustee of the Jefferson Elementary School District.

Robert St. Clair (D), of Millbrae, owner of a liquor store in San Francisco and a former member of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Bruce B. Makar (R), of Burlingame, a real estate man.

William J. "Bill" Schumacher (D), of Daly City, an attorney and a member of the Daly City Council.

San Francisco residents who filed their nomination papers in that city:

John J. Foran (D), a member of the State Assembly from the 16th District.

Max Woods (R), a cable car conductor.

Stanton C. Seeba (R), an insurance executive.

Patricia Dolbeare (NP), a labor organizer.

San Bruno Bolsters Planning

The San Bruno City Council ended a four-month-old controversy this week by voting to hire a city planner to direct what many city officials have complained is an overworked planning department.

By a 4-1 vote, the council instructed City Manager Gerald Minford to hire a replacement for former planning director Paul Moeller, who resigned last December.

Councilman Richard Griffith, who opposed hiring a replacement, repeated his demand that Assistant City Manager Jack Mulqueeney be made city planner. He maintained that the transfer would save the city $25,000 per year.

Over the past several months, Minford has attempted to demonstrate for the council the need for both a city planner and an assistant city manager. He has provided the council with a report detailing the duties assigned to both positions.

Planning commissioners also have argued that the planning department is overworked and in need of a director.

At a joint meeting of the planning commission and City Council last week, commissioners called on the council to hire a replacement for Moeller.

At that meeting, commissioners complained that Acting Planning Director Kay Ransom is working 55 to 65 hours per week to keep up with day-to-day planning matters and to adequately prepare herself for commission meetings.

The commissioners also pointed out that Mrs. Ransom has one assistant, Jim Evans, a Comprehensive Employment Training Act employe. Federal funds used to pay his salary will run out in June.

Commented Councilman John Barnard, "The commissioners have told us that they need help. We have a need for good planning in this city."

Tax Hike Ahead, Bruno Manager Says

"We're going to have to face up to the fact that a lot of bucks are going to be added to the budget and that a tax increase will be recommended."

So declared San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford after the City Council this week voted to add a police officer to the city payroll and to hire a labor negotiator to work out a wage pact with city employes.

Minford estimated the additional police officer would cost the city from $27,000 to $30,000 per year.

Although Councilman John Barnard called on the council to hold off a decision to hire a policeman until the matter could be thoroughly discussed at budget time in June, his fellow councilmen voted to authorize Minford to hire an officer immediately.

"I don't think there's a chance in heck that this council won't vote to hire a police officer; we might as well move to hire an officer now," said Councilman Tony Governale.

"We're a year behind on this already," added Councilman Gary Mondfrans.

Minford advised the council that a labor negotiator is needed if the cost of city employe salaries "is to be reasonable."

"It is possible," said Minford, "for the city to negotiate with its own staff, but I don't believe the long-range results will be as good as it can be under the guidance of a labor specialist."

Minford argued that the city needs a professional bargaining agent "because most employes in the city are represented by professional labor negotiators who are specialists in representing the interests of employees."

The city manager recommended that the council contract with Industrial Employors and Distributors Association to negotiate a contract between the city and its employes, at anannual cost of about $7,500 per year.

Mindford reasoned that a city manager who is directly involved in the "meet-and-confer" process is hampered in his ability to motivate employes since he must assume an adversary position during negotiations.

"Meet-and-confer is essentially an adversary relationship, and a professional labor relations firm is able to assume some of the heat that would ordinarily place a city manager in an incompatible position of arguing . . . meet-and-confer demands one day . . . and motivating them on the job the following day," said Minford.

Councilman Richard Griffith told Minford, "I Believe a city manager should be in the position to take the heat and still effectively deal with employes."

He maintained there is a "morale problem" among city workers and suggested that the problem could be corrected if the administration met face to face with the employes' negotiator.

"With the expansive management we have in this city, we should at least be able to handle negotiations," Griffith added.

Mondfrans said he could not support Minford's recommendation because he believes a negotiator "alienates" the workers from the management.

Barnard and Governale joined Mayor Margaret Kozkowski in voting to hire a negotiator.

Six labor contracts covering 196 city employes expire June 30.

Assistant City Manager Jack Mulqueeny said he hopes the labor negotiator can begin discussing a new contract with the employes' representative early next month.

Pacifica Asks Reform

Two slayings linked to former mental institution patients in Pacifica in 1975 have prompted the City Council to support reforms in procedures for the release of the mentally ill into communities.

The council Monday night agreed to seek support from the North County Council of Cities, San Mateo County Council of Mayors, Board of Supervisors and county mental health facilities for better supervision of the mentally ill.

Kenneth Russell of San Bruno was charged with the 1975 slaying of a 20-year-old friend, John Yazolino, on a Pacifica street.

Later, Michael Castro of Pacifica, was charged in the death of his father, Felix Castro, who was decapitated.

Russell, was released from Atascadero State Hospital over the objections of his mother and Supervisor James Fitzgerald two weeks before the slaying occurred. Russell has not yet been tried.

Castro, released on medication from Agnew state hospital, was found not guilty by reason of insanity.

In both cases, the accused had ceased their taking medication.

"Since the state closed down or greatly cut back various institutions . . . we're going to be faced with this more often and more often," said Mayor Stan Farber.

Farber said he wanted the City Council to consider the problem since it has touched Pacifica's population.

Police Chief Mel Nelson in February asked the council to propose legislation that would immediately halt the release of violent individuals from mental institutions.

"It has only been in the last five or 10 years that I have noticed persons who have obviously committed crimes, very violent ones, being released to our community who are obviously still unstable, Nelson told the council.

"Chemotherapy is effective, but when there are no controls, mental patients very often tend to cease their prescribed drug intake and, hence, cause problems for society, very often violent problems," Nelson stated.

Nelson has discussed the problem with Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo but Piombo has said his hands are tied by existing laws.

Piombo, however, recommended that the facts he brought to local and state legislators in hopes that some legislation will be developed to alleviate the problem.

Hartnett Dinner Set

Capt. Donald J. Hartnett, who is retiring March 31 after 30 years with the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office, will be honored at a dinner April 1 at the Redwood City Elks Club.

Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo will be featured speaker at the dinner.

Tickets for the dinner are $10 each and may be obtained by sending checks made out to the Don Hartnett Retirement Dinner to Fred Hoover, P.O. Box 2147, Redwood City 94064.

The affair will begin at 7 p.m. with no-host cocktails, followed by dinner at 8 p.m.

Gregorio, Pickett Speak at Health Meeting

San Mateo County's state senator, and the head of its Health and Welfare Department, president-elect of the American Public Health Association, were principal speakers Friday at the Oakland spring meeting of the northern division of the California Public Health Association.

Both vigorously urged participation in a democratic way of the public health careerists in forming governmental decisions bearing on health.

George Pickett, M.D., new APHA leader, urged participation in that organization to maintain the goals of health care. He charged that President Ford's medical program — which will center on block grants that provide money for sick care but not preventative services — is "one of the most significant rollbacks in public health we have ever witnessed."

Gregorio said health care is involved in the hard look that taxpayers are taking at all government programs.

Health represents the second largest expenditure in the state budget next to education, Gregorio said.

Taxpayers are looking at the state mental hospital programs, MediCal programs, at community service programs for the various categories of health, and at the various Department of Health programs, "with its over 21,000 employes and $3.3 billon budget"' Gregorio said.

"As professionals, you and the others who care about public health may have to help think about the alternatives, about the way in which the public money can be utilized more effectively," he said.

He pointed to preventative measures, nutrition, and the roles of drug abuse, stress, the environment as having a major impact on health care. "Proper attention to those factors can substitute for a great amount of dollars," Gregorio said.

Also involved in the decision-making, the senator said, is the question of the use of non-physician professionals.

Gregorio noted that the health care delivery system depends almost exclusively upon decisions made by physicians. "Fewer and fewer of these physicians are capable of handling the primary care kind of problems that most people experience."

He felt there was interest, for money reasons and simply for effectiveness for a development of an expanded role of non-physician professionals in health care.

Criticism of government, bureaucracy, and politics has to be dealt with, he said. "Many are turned off today."

It has led to a "great frustration and feeling of helplessness" on the part of many good people who are in government because they believe in what they are doing and really want to do something in the public interest, he said.

Too often, Gregorio said, decisions are made "at the level to which they don't even have access."

"Why don't decision makers ask the people who know before they make decisions?" the senator said.

Gregorio said that while elected officials sometimes fail to listen enough, "they need someone to get their attention. The political process is there," he said, "for you to use it too."

He urged each to get to know his state representatives and reminded that the Legislature makes the basic decisions. "You can have a much greater impact than I think you realize.

"You ought to meet them. You ought to meet the people who represent them — the Charlotte Schultzes or the senator and the assemblymen in your particular area," Gregorio said.

(Mrs. Schultz is Gregorio's field representative.)

While this is done effectively by lobbyists, Gregorio said, it can be done just as effectively by "determined volunteer organizations."

Gregorio said that his committee is currently holding a series of hearings on the report on the state Department of Health made by the Little Hoover Commission, and has held five so far, being right now occupied with MediCal, a subject that "could occupy us a year."

"The main thing those hearings are showing us," he said, "is the state of morale, the state of frustration of the people of professional competence in that department."

RPC Or Citizens Group?

The existing Regional Planning Committee,rather than a new citizens group, should be the ones to advise San Mateo County Supervisors on public housing needs and funding.

That was one conclusion Thursday night during the RPC's monthly meeting at the Burlingame Library.

Members of the group, representing all the county's cities and the general public, heard a review of existing policies determining distribution of funds from federal sources such as the Housing and Community Development Act.

Some members pointed out that existing distribution formulas send an apparently disproportionate share of housing funds to East Palo Alto, in the county's unincorporated area. As funding allotments shift over the next few years, they said, this now justifiable imbalance will become less acceptable.

Anja Miller of Brisbane, Michael Barrett of Redwood City, and Ira Bonde of Menlo Park argued that a change in the distribution formula should be worked out.

Barrett also argued that the Regional Planning Committee had never yet "addressed housing as a regional issue," and urged his fellow members to do so before attempting to establish fund distribution policies.

Supervisor Jean Fassler said the County Board of Supervisors is now interviewing candidates for a "citizen advisory" committee on housing. She admitted that such a function might well be performed by the RPC.

Barrett asked that a subcommittee be named to review the county and cities housing policies and come back to RPC in April with a recommended action.

A similar action was taken by the regional planners regarding county-wide parks and recreation studies.

RPC is also to hear presentations on local park planning, starting at the April dinner meeting, so as to coordinate activity between the county and the several cities.

The committee scheduled its "annual dinner meeting" April 22 at Crystal Springs Golf and Country Club, with San Francisco Supervisor Quentin Kopp as the guest speaker.

Kopp's topic, committee members were told, will be: "A neighbor's View on Regional Planning."

The committee heard Royce Vaughn, new public affairs officer for Association of Bay Area Governments, describe ABAG's Environmental Management Planning Task Force.

Under federal and state guidance, he said, ABAG is setting up an overall review of Bay Area policies regarding control of air, water and waste, and other factors of the environment.

San Mateo County is already participating in this task force, with Supervisor Fassler as the county's representative, Vaughn said.

An April 6 public hearing will be held by the Board of Supervisors to determine further action, she said.

SSF Schools Set to Begin Health Education

By JANET PARKER

The first step in implementing an extensive elementary health education program has been taken by the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees.

Teachers from one South San Francisco school — yet to be designated — will be trained this summer to instruct the nationally recognized Berkeley model school health curriculum project.

The program's proponents hope that eventually the Berkeley model will be extended to all 14 of the SSFUSD elementary schools, grades four through seven.

The first training session, including the cost of classroom teaching materials for four schools, will cost approximately $5,000.

Pat Ross, health education specialist, called it the best health program for the money.

"We have looked at numerous programs," Mrs. Ross said. The U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department adopted the Berkeley model in 1967 and now it is used by 227 school districts across the country, including New York's public education system.

Health education is required from kindergarten through the eighth grade in California. Only the junior high schools have established health programs at this time, she said.

The Berkeley model involves student teamwork and innovative learning methods, Mrs. Ross said.

It also, she said, includes parent volunteers, although the program can operate without them.

Mrs. Ross explained that a five-member teacher team will train in one of the four units of the Berkeley model at the nearest regional training center this summer.

Two teachers, the school nurse, the principal and the health education specialist are involved in the 60 hours of training.

The four units are stomach and digestive, lung and respiratory, heart and circulatory and brain and nervous systems.

When the team returns, it will implement the project at the school it represents. Then, in the spring, the team will be responsible for training other district teams, possibily through the adult education division.

"We would like to try it as a pilot project at one school." Mrs. Ross said.

If the first teaching team's experience is satisfactory, teams from elementary schools might receive summer training said Mrs. Ross.

But, she said, any expansion would depend upon funding from outside sources. In addition to a $100,000 federal grant application, she is seeking financial help from the American Cancer Society, and the heart and lung associations.

While the teaching techniques will be extended to all the elementary schools through the first four teaching units, the district would have to purchase additional materials to teach the program at the remaining 10 schools.

She said, however, that materials for the schools probably could be purchased for much less than the $2,500 at the four schools, first involved.

After Mrs. Ross showed a 15-minute film on the project recently, a parent protested that the health education project is nothing but "big business."

"I don't understand how anyone can become so easily enraptured by a proposal for another pilot program," said Mrs. Ruth Fee. "This picture here tonight is a laugh. It's nothing but big business."

The South City school district, Mrs. Fee said, is becoming known as "the pilot program district."

She said one quality health education teacher using resources in the community could provide the same information for students.

Another parent, Mrs. Ruth Remke, asked if there are already organizations in the community that can provide the same service to teachers and students — especially when the district's financial picture is tight.

Mrs. Ross defended the program, pointing out that health education is required. Until recently teachers were not required to have any health training to obtain a credential, she said.

"If we are going to get health education off the ground in this community, we do need a good viable program," Mrs. Ross said.

Nancy Hale, Citizens Advisory Committee member, said HEW is not "big business" in the same way as a private industry. The benefits of the program far outweigh the initial $5,000, she said.

"You are going to reap more benefits from this program than any, with the possible exception of driver education," Mrs. Hale said.

A system which allows a teacher training unit to spread its knowledge to other teachers reduces program costs, she said.

Mrs. Fee insisted there must be more behind the project than the initial $5,000.

A resident, Morton Herman, asked what will happen to the program if funds are not available to train teachers for the remaining three units.

Board President Ken Austin pointed out that training of the first unit this summer is a program within itself and can be used by teachers throughout the district, even if the remaining three unis are not funded.

'Damn Yankees' On Campus

Aragon High School in keeping with the bicentennial spirit this year, is presenting the all American smash musical "Damn Yankees" on April 7, 8, 9 and 10.

"Damn Yankees" is based on Douglass Wallop's book-of-the-month selection, "The Year the Yankees Lost the Pennant." The music and lyrics by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross have among many tunes the memorable, "Whatever Lola Wants" and "You Gotta Have Heart."

In the role of Mr. Applegate — the Devil, originally done by Ray Walston on Broadway will be Kevin Keats. The role of Lola will be played by Lisa Rolfe which was the part Gwen Verdon did.

Joe Hardy, the star baseball player, is played by Brad Lewis.

Chris Gambol as man- Others are Chris Gambol as manager

Battle of The Sexes At Geary

Katherina and Petruchio renew Shakespeare's famous battle of the sexes tonight as "The Taming of the Shrew" rejoins the American Conservatory Theater's repertory for a third consecutive season. Some balcony seats are still available for the 8:30 p.m. opening at the Geary.

The comic tale of an outrageous courtship and marriage in Padua is directed in commedia dell'arte style by William Ball. The novel presentation received the Los Angeles Drama Critics' Circle Award for "most distinguished production of 1974" and has been one of the most popular repertory entries in A.C.T. history.

Fredi Olster and Anthony S. Teague are again teamed as the athletic lovers. Other featured performers include Ronald Boussom, Raye Birk, Rick Hamilton, Daniel Kern, William Stephen Stphen Schnetzer, Sandra Shotwell and James R. Winker.

Each issue of The Post and San Bruno Publications will be considered as consecutive insertions and must be taken to qualify for consecutive insertion rate. San Bruno newspapers are published Wednesday and Saturday. The Post is published Wednesday.

ACCEPTABILITY: The Times reserves the right to reject, censor and properly classify any advertisement.

THE FIRST WORD of each 8 point type ad will be spelled out. Abbreviations will be accepted on the first word in 12 point or larger type lines. However, any ad that does not begin with an alphabetical character will not be in alphabetical sequence.

DEADLINE: Classified advertising must be placed by 3:00 p.m. day preceding publication. Monday through Friday, 12 noon Saturday for Monday's publication and 48 hours preceding holidays.

ERRORS: No responsibility is assumed by publisher for errors in any advertisement covered by order, nor for the omission of any advertisement in whole or in part, nor for failure to comply with the placement of advertising as ordered either as to frequency or volume. In no event shall publisher be liable for special damages or consequential damages even if it has been notified of the possibility of such damages.

Errors in published advertisements must be reported immediately; and if done, publisher will publish an appropriate correction and where publisher deems it necessary a rerun of the advertisement as corrected, if in publisher's judgment the error substantially varies the meaning of the advertisement as ordered. Such corrections will be made only as to those advertisements which are ordered for one insertion, and as to the first insertion only when ordered for more than one insertion.

Board to Fight SF Commuter Tax

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors is again prepared to battle any effort by the City of San Francisco to impose a tax on commuters who work in the city.

Noting that Mayor George Moscone has publicly declared his intent to propose and support a tax on non-resident commuters employed in San Francisco, the Board of Supervisors Tuesday adopted a resolution declaring its opposition to such a tax.

The resolution also states the board's opinion that commuters pay their fair share in taxes to San Francisco, and that placing an additional tax burden on them would be unconstitutional as discriminatory and a denial of equal protection of the laws.

It is noted in the resolution that a commuter tax imposed by San Francisco several years ago subsequently was declared unconstitutional.

Also, the resolution states, commuters contribute "substantially" to the economic base of the city in patronizing the city's business establishments which produces revenue in the form of sales taxes, business license fees, gross payroll taxes and many indirect taxes through doing business in the city.

Supervisor John M. Ward made the only comment as the board unanimously adopted the resolution. He called the commuter tax proposal "negative" and asserted it would be a violation of the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

UAP Does Not Want Subsidies

The Union of American Physicians has announced that it strongly opposes malpractice insurance reform measures which require subsidies from California taxpayers.

In a telegram sent to all state legislators last weekend, the union's spokesman, president Sanford Marcus of Daly City said, "...we have increasing indication that about 25 per cent of all California physicians have chosen to avoid all commercial malpractice coverage and are now self-insured."

According to Marcus, "The union believes that this is a proper way to resolve the problem, and respectfully requests that you table all present legislation that concerns itself with funding."

It is the union's position that physicians ought to handle their insurance situation on their own. "Without the massive pool of insurance money to attract them, we feel that many present suits would simply not be filed"

Tennis, Everyone?

By JOHN HORGAN
Post Staff Writer

For many of us, tennis has become the great American disease.

We can't shake it no matter how hard we try. It is addicting, like that before-dinner drinkiepoo and Monty Python re-runs.

No matter how hard I try, I can't shake the urge to whack away at someone's Wilsons.

The sport's popularity has reached epidemic proportions. I know a woman in San Mateo who is considering starting her own tennis tournament on her block so she and her friends can hog a court or two at Aragon High School for an entire weekend.

That's how difficult it is to get a court nowadays on the placid Peninsula.

At Washington Park in Burlingame, there are people who can be seen playing tennis close to midnight under the lights.

At that same facility, the summer months bring out hordes of tennis freaks who camp out there throughout each weekend as they lust for competition and liquid refreshments.

I've seen people fighting — literally — go get on a tennis court to the spring.

Most of us never thought we'd see it, but, yes, indoor courts are booming too.

Indoor courts in San Mateo County, where the climate is supposed to be best by government test. Think about that for a moment. The demand has become so great that courts are at a premium during prime tennis time.

However, for some of us, hackers to a man, those indoor courts may turn out to be the very things we need. They could make us quit the sport cold turkey, something I never thought I could do.

You can't hide your failings on an indoor court. You are virtually naked out there.

Some of them have installed easy chairs for casual lounging so you can sit and watch pathetic players like me flail away at the flying Spauldings.

And you can't dress shabbily on an indoor court. Cutoff jeans and torn T-shirts don't make it inside.

You have to dress properly indoors or people will talk. "Mercy," the gawkers will note, "look at that young man in the odd attire on court seven. I do believe he bought his gear at Goodwill."

At Washington Park, there is one guy who shows up in what looks like his pajamas on Sunday morning, unshaven, smoking a soiled pipe and possessed of a wicked backhand.

He wouldn't get through the front door of your average indoor spa.

The last time I played indoors I was more worried about the Astroturf than my opponent. My game is so weak that I was concerned about ripping a few divots in the rug on my serve.

You don't have that problem at Central Park in San Mateo or Canada College in Redwood City.

Playing indoors also takes away one of my favorite excuses: losing the ball in the sun.

What do you say indoors? "Drat, I lost it in the acoustical tile?" You can't say anything, you can't even swear, because there are 15 people sitting there in their $300 outfits snickering into their soft drinks as you bumble through your set.

Outside, it's a whole different game. It's looser, more informal. I know a man who works only in the winter and then goes on relief in the spring and summer so he can play tennis and acquire a nice California tan, not necessarily in that order.

One of his best friends smokes a cigar while he plays. Another spends most of his time running after six-packs for everyone else.

Best of all, when you play tennis outdoors, nobody laughs if you look like a Salvation Army retread.

Service, please.

Single Parents to Meet in Daly City

Parents Without Partners, Daly City Chapter 930, will hold a general meeting April 9 at 8 p.m. in the Jefferson Elementary School District, Board Room, 101 Lincoln Way, Daly City.

Linda Bartley from New England Life Insurance Co. will be guest speaker. Following the general meeting, there will be a no-host pizza and beer party at a nearby pizza parlor.

On April 20 the group will hold a newcomer orientation for new and prospective members. Time is 8 p.m. For further information and the address, call Mary at 992-8355.
